Call Unexplained

Diefenbaker Silent Over Dissolution

OTTAWA (CP)—Fresh from a 40-minute call on Governor-General Vanier that sparked new speculation about dissolution of Parliament, Prime Minister Diefenbaker late Friday went into conference with External Affairs Minister Green and the Canadian ambassador to Washington.

Ambassador Charles Ritchie was called home from Washington in the wake of a mushrooming controversy with the United States over nuclear arms policy.

He and Mr. Green were ushered into the prime minister's private office across the hall from the Commons chamber, where the possibility of dissolution was the chief topic of conversation, if not of actual debate.

Tone wrong but facts right, says Rusk; We're not part of New Frontier, says Diefenbaker. See Page 5.

The conference lasted about 45 minutes and Mr. Diefenbaker, when questioned by reporters, called it "just a review of the situation." He said there would be a morning cabinet session.

Later, he entered the government lobby behind the Commons chamber, chatted with support-

London Surprised

We're Usually So Genteel!

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's argument with the United States over nuclear defence is being watched in London with polite interest and a certain mild surprise.

"Not often Canada gets on the front pages," said one British observer. "You're usually so genteel. And what happened to all those speeches about the longest undefended frontier?"

Asked for less lighthearted comment, spokesmen for the Commonwealth relations office and the foreign office recoiled. "Not normally our practice to comment on this sort of thing," one source said crisply.

One unofficial reaction to the Canadian-U.S. tiff is that the Western alliance is in "enough trouble" already after this week's developments in Brussels, with France shutting Britain out of the Common Market and commentators talking somberely of "the funeral of Europe."

Articles have already been written about the decline of NATO, Canadian displeasure with the U.S. state department, if still evident at the NATO meeting in Ottawa next May, will hardly provide the harmonious atmosphere conducive to easing strains in the alliance.

THREATS POSSIBLE

The Manchester Guardian, in a Washington dispatch by Hella Pick, said Washington is "certainly considering whether to threaten Canada with a withdrawal of some of the important defence contracts" placed in Canada by the U.S.

U.S. Comment

Columbia: Things Look Bad

WASHINGTON (AP)—A government official who has been involved in negotiations with Canada regarding that country's ratification of the proposed Columbia River treaty said Friday "things look pretty bad."

The official, who asked not to be named, told a reporter the situation had been looking bad for some days, even before Prime Minister Diefenbaker accused the United States Thursday of butting into Canadian affairs in regard to nuclear weapons.

SOME DAYS

"I've been pessimistic now for some days," the official said.

"We had expected to hear something from the Canadians about the middle of December, and certainly during January, as the result of recent meetings and conferences.

"We haven't heard a thing. I also regard as negative the developments in regard to nuclear weapons."

NOT DONE SO

The United States ratified the Columbia treaty on March 16, 1961 but Canada has not done so.

Interior Secretary Stewart Udall expressed optimism at a press conference five weeks ago. He said at that time that a great deal of progress had been made in a series of closed-door talks.

Stupid Bid? Court Says No

LONDON (AP)—South bid one spade. North sued for libel and the hand wound up Friday in the high court.

South was bridge expert Edward Mayer, north was Victor Mollo, equally expert, and he held this hand:

Spades: 7, 6, 3.
Hearts: Ace, king, 4, 3, 2.
Diamonds: 3.
Clubs: 6,5,4,3.

* * *

Could anyone possibly bid two clubs on that lot? And would it be libellous to suggest that he could?

Mollo quoted the hand in his recent book, Modern Bidding. Mayer reviewed the book and the hand in a magazine called The Listener and said Mollo recommended a two-club reply. Mayer wrote:

* * *

"It is all very well to make the cheapest response to your partner's opening bid to allow him manoeuvring space but I am not convinced that a bid of two clubs is a commercial response to one spade."

Mollo complained to Justice Sir William McNair that he never recommended a two-club bid on that hand and to suggest he did held him up to ridicule. He brought expert witnesses to say the only possible bid would be two hearts.

* * *

Mayer, bridge correspondent on The Times, claimed the review was fair comment. He brought in experts to say that no bid of any kind was even the safest ridiculous as long as it fits with a bidding system.

Justice McNair—"a very humble bridge expert with no great claims to orthodoxy" — dismissed Mollo's suit against Mayer and the BBC, publishers of The Listener.

* * *

"The words complained of would not be regarded by ordinary, reasonable people as disparaging," said the judge. He ordered Mollo to pay the costs of the three-day hearing.

BOY DIES IN POND

Melting Ice Claims Child

A five-year-old Sidney boy slipped to his death through the melting ice of an irrigation pond in North Saanich Friday afternoon.

John Middlemas, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Middlemas, 2527 Bazan, was visiting the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Gray, 9005 East Saanich Road, and was playing with their daughter, Carrie, 4, when the tragedy occurred around 3 p.m.

TERRIBLE STATE

Mrs. Gray was "in a terrible state" following the accident, her husband told the Colonist last night.

"They were playing in our woodshed," Mr. Gray said. "My wife went out and told them to keep their mittens on. Five minutes later she went out and they were gone."

Mrs. Peter Whitehouse, who lives across the road from the irrigation pond, notified her husband, who is a volunteer fireman and the Sidney fire truck and ambulance were on the way in minutes.

An inhalator was applied for half an hour but failed to revive the boy, and he was pronounced dead by Dr. D. R. Ross.

MOVED TO B.C.

The Middlemas family had just moved to B.C. in October from Edmonton. Mr. Middlemas, who is a sheet metal mechanic, brought his family from London, England, about five years ago when he came to Canada to work on the now defunct Avro Arrow project.

He is now employed by Fairey Aviation Company Ltd. at Patricia Bay airport.

CLIMBED FENCE

In addition to his parents, the boy is survived by two sisters, Brenda, 16, and Lynn, 8, and two brothers, Alan, 12, and Robin, 10.

The irrigation pond where the boy met his death is on the property of C. O. Myers, 9005 East Saanich Road. Sidney firemen, under Chief Arthur Gardner, had to climb a wire fence to get to the pond. They used a ladder to go out on the ice and retrieve the body.

'SPARK OF LIFE'

"There seemed to be a slight spark of life in the boy when we got him out but we weren't able to revive him," fireman Wilkie Gardner said.

The Middlemas boy's death was the second within a month as a result of thin ice. Daniel Belfour, 7, of 2774 Winster, was drowned when he fell through the ice of a Langford pond Jan. 10.

Blanket of Snow

A freakish storm subsided Friday after bringing up to 22 inches of snow to Washington state, but the weather bureau said another, milder, disturbance was on the way.

New Blizzard Bitter Cold Hit Prairies

(From Canadian Press)

A blizzard screamed across the southern Prairies Friday and knifed into northwestern Ontario and the northern United States.

Driving winds piled up drifts that brought highway traffic to a near standstill in Alberta and Saskatchewan, blocked at least one highway and halted an air-search for a missing plane in Manitoba.

Sub-zero temperatures added to the discomfort.

The blizzard, second in 10 days, started late Thursday night. It moved across the open country with winds gusting to 50 miles an hour. Visibility in many areas was reduced to near zero by wind-whipped snow.

Three hundred students were stranded at Maple Creek, Sask., 60 miles east of Medicine Hat, and were billeted in private homes.

FLIGHTS OFF

Airline flights from most southern Prairie points were cancelled. Buses and trains were behind schedule.

The Alberta Motor Association at Medicine Hat urged motorists to stay off the highways.

Drifting was so severe at Swift Current, Sask., that highways department crews could not get out to determine highway conditions.

BUSES BLOCKED

Attendance at Moose Jaw centralized elementary school, where only one of 13 school buses arrived, was cut to 20 from the usual 300. The school was closed. Flights at the Moose Jaw RCAF station were cancelled.

Weather forecast for the Prairies today calls for cold weather and clear or clearing skies.

U.K. Coldest In 135 Years

LONDON (AP)—A renewed cold wave hit winter-weary Europe and Britain Friday. The death toll amounted to 466 as temperatures plunged far below freezing.

Britain had the coldest January in 135 years, the weather bureau said.

Queen Starts Tour Of Fiji Islands

BULLETIN

NADI, Fiji (Reuters) — The airliner bringing the Queen and Prince Philip on a South Pacific tour landed here today after a flight from Vancouver and Honolulu.

HONOLULU (AP) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, en route to the Fiji Islands, spent one hour and seven minutes in Honolulu this afternoon—including a 10-minute delay because of a mixup in arrangements.

The chartered 707 jet liner carrying the royal party from Vancouver arrived at 1:50 p.m. (6:50 p.m. EST) and took off at 2:57 p.m.

Governor John Burns of Hawaii was 10 minutes late in reaching the airport because of a mixup in timing.

Smiling but tired, the Queen alighted, waved to a crowd of some 400 well-wishers and retreated with the prince, Burns and British Consul Wilfred Hindle to the lounge in the terminal to wait out the 45-minute refuelling stop.

The Queen spent less than 20 minutes in the lounge. Then she walked briskly through the new airport building and back to the plane.

NO HULA GIRLS

There was no traditional Hawaiian welcome for the royal pair—no flower leis, no hula girls.

But a member of the party arranged for orchids and other Hawaiian flowers to be placed aboard the plane.

'Must Stop Pampering Them'

B.C. Taught Freedomites to Evade Law

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

British Columbia has turned dissident Freedomites into privileged citizens and taught them disregard for the law, Mrs. Lois Haggen (NDP—Grand Forks-Greenwood) told the legislature yesterday.

Legislature news, Page 5.

She mounted a bitter attack on Attorney-General Robert Bonner's stewardship over Freedomite affairs and pleaded with him to heed the advice of Kootenay and RCMP experts in the field.

B.C. must stop pampering the dissident Freedomites, she told the House.

* * *

The appeasement of trouble-makers within the sect was started by former attorney-general Gordon Wismer, Mrs. Haggen said, "and this attorney-general has perpetuated the problem."

* * *

She said during last year's session she warned of impending trouble within the sect, and Mr. Bonner "sanctimoniously assured me that the situation was never under better control."

But within a few days, she continued, Freedomites blew up a power transmission tower near Nelson and cost local industry more than 1,000 man days of work for several days.

She said she knew there was going to be trouble because Freedomites were in the throes of choosing a new leader.

* * *

The Freedomite problem is a provincial problem except where federal penal institutions are concerned, said Mrs. Haggen. She accused Mr. Bonner of not objecting to the Freedomite prison at Agassiz until it became politically desirable to attack federal cabinet minister Davie Fulton for allowing it to be built.

* * *

"I feel this honorable attorney-general is responsible for perpetuating this problem. He has accepted the bad example set before him.

"He has frustrated and disheartened his own RCMP. He has refused to listen to the mayors of Nelson, Trail and Grand Forks. He told me on the floor of this House he has no high regard for the citizens' committee.

Russian Surprise Sparks 'Ready' Order in Nevada

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy Friday ordered preparations for a resumption of underground nuclear tests in Nevada as a result of Russia's surprise breakup of test ban talks with the U.S. and Britain.

Kennedy's action was announced by Secretary of State Dean Rusk who said there had been only the slightest progress toward a test ban, and "we cannot hold out great expectation" of a three-power agreement soon.

Rusk told a news conference the recent Soviet offer to permit "two or three" on-site inspections a year on Soviet territory was presented by the Russians on a "take it or leave it basis." He said he had hoped this issue would be negotiable.

The President suspended the non-fallout Nevada tests last Saturday in hopes of facilitating the negotiations. But Russia unexpectedly ended them Thursday in New York. They will resume at the 18-nation disarmament conference in Geneva Feb. 12.

In reply to questions, Rusk referred only to "preparations" for tests, not an actual resumption as yet. The presidential order for preparations could be designed to put pressure on the Soviets to come to some agreement.

Actually, the President said in suspending the tests that facilities for their resumption would be kept ready in the event of another deadlock in negotiations. While that point may not yet have been reached, Rusk said there had been only "miniscule" progress so far.

He added, however, this did not mean the New York-Washington talks were worthless, since there had been an "exchange of views" on the tricky inspection issue.

Parley with Vanier Goes Unexplained

ers briefly and as the Commons adjourned at 6 p.m. EST until 2:30 p.m. EST Monday looked from behind the curtains into the House.

Earlier, he had sat silent at the invitation of Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) to tell the House of his visit to the Governor-General.

The prime minister took a round-about route to Government House only to have the secrecy of the visit frustrated by reporters. He emerged from his conference with Governor-General Vanier to tell them it was a "regular" visit.

Later, he replied to persistent questions about a dissolution of Parliament by saying "I have no announcements." But at no time did he state that Parliament would not be dissolved.

AIR OF CRISIS

His activities, in the wake of press conference statements in Washington by U.S. State Secretary Rusk regarding the nuclear controversy, renewed the air of crisis under which Parliament labored Thursday.

A state department press release criticizing Canadian policy on acquisition of nuclear arms came under fire in a Commons debate Thursday marked by violently-worded reaction from all political parties.

ATTACK U.S.

The four party leaders — Mr. Diefenbaker, Liberal Leader Pearson, Social Credit Leader Thompson and New Democratic Leader Douglas — all attacked the U.S. government for interference in a domestic political issue.

FACTS STATED FAIRLY

Thursday's crisis appeared to have subsided until Mr. Rusk's press conference Friday. He said the U.S. would express regret at the tone of Wednesday's state department press release but added he felt the release stated the facts fairly.

It was understood that aspects of Mr. Rusk's press conference which particularly disturbed the Canadian government were these:

1. It was given after unanimous expression of disapproval by all political parties here of the U.S. publicly entering the Canadian nuclear controversy.

2. Mr. Rusk, in saying he felt the state department's Wednesday release had stated the facts fairly, was reiterating criticism that Mr. Diefenbaker "disclosed" secret Canada - U.S. talks were being held on acquisition of nuclear weapons.

Shortly after Mr. Rusk's statement and a further report that a U.S. Senate subcommittee will open a closed-door investigation Monday into the Canada-U.S. nuclear controversy, most of the cabinet assembled in Mr. Diefenbaker's office.

The meeting broke up in about an hour and Mr. Diefenbaker began his motor trip to Government House—five years to the day that he made a similar journey by air to Quebec City to get the Governor-General's agreement to dissolution for the 1958 general election.

The prime minister is known to attach importance to such anniversaries and reporters drew it to his attention.

Clearly enjoying the chase that he headed throughout the afternoon, Mr. Diefenbaker laughingly said: "So you noticed that, did you?"

KEEPS SILENT

But he maintained his silence on dissolution and the subjects he discussed with Governor-General Vanier.

Giving weight to speculation about a dissolution was the uncertainty of the minority government getting enough voting support in the Commons next Tuesday to survive an expected vote on an opposition motion of non-confidence.

Social Credit Leader Thompson—on whose party's votes the Conservative government has depended in previous crucial tests—said his party may support a non-confidence motion based on government indecision on the nuclear issue.

adequate child allowance forms, the use of marked gasoline in motor vehicles and only casual compliance with income tax regulations.

* * *

"We have created first-class citizens. We have created a privileged class. Is it any wonder they have no respect for law and order?" she asked the House.

She said when she spoke on the problem in Vancouver late last year she was considered "a hard-hearted old biddy" because she showed little sympathy for the troublemakers within the sect.

The marching Freedomites now in Vancouver may be headed back to their point of origin in the Kootenays, she said, because a mysterious reconstruction program is in progress in Krestova where many of the marches burned their homes last year.

Mrs. Haggen said "no longer are the law-abiding citizens of the Kootenays going to take subjection to this handful of persons who have no respect for law and order."

* * *

Looking toward where Mr. Bonner was engrossed in reading correspondence, Mrs. Haggen appealed to him to heed the 10-year-old Hawthorne report on Freedomites and set up a continuing committee which would include representatives from the sect.

"For once, I say, do take some advice.

"Unless your thinking changes we shall not find a solution—at least under this government."

No Threat of Cancer From Annual X-Ray

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: What is your idea about a chest X-ray required annually by an employer? There has been much discussion concerning after-effects, possibly leading to cancer.—Mrs. M.A.M.

To clear the air, let's dispose of the "cancer" idea. No, this won't cause cancer.

A chest X-ray requires about one-tenth of a second exposure, and comparable amounts of other diagnostic X-rays. At the rate of one ordinary X-ray a year, at a tenth of a second, 36,000 years would be required to accumulate only one hour of exposure—or 600 years for a mere minute.

Because of the significance as applied to birth defects, the important time for protection is in early life - say until 35 years or so.

That covers the child-bearing years for the most part. After then, the added radiation is of less significance.

There has been some change in routine testing. Instead of chest X-rays for everyone, there is now a growing practice of giving a tuberculin, or skin, test to people under 35. If the test is negative, no X-ray is required. If it is positive (showing that the person has been exposed to TB) then an X-ray is taken. If this shows no disease, then an additional X-ray every other year (rather than every year, as in the past) is taken.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 80 and have been wearing a pessary for several years on account of prolapse. Would an operation at my age be O.K.? I am comfortable.—Mrs. M.B.H.

If you are comfortable, and the pessary is effective and causes no irritation, why not continue as you are? Or is there some reason you did not mention to me for considering surgery?

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: Will milk cause too much penicillin in the body, since cows are given penicillin?—L.M.

Ordinarily, no. A person who is extremely sensitive to penicillin might have some trouble, but such instances are rare.

NATO A-Force Soon?

Britain, Italy Huddle

ROME (Reuters) — The premiers of Britain and Italy Friday discussed ways of speeding plans for a NATO nuclear force.

Informed sources said this topic occupied most of a three-hour first session of the two-day talks between Prime Minister Macmillan and Premier Fanfani.

It was understood they touched only briefly on the implications of the breakdown of the Brussels talks on Britain's effort to join the European Common market.

The sources said the Brussels breakdown will be dealt with fully at today's meeting between the two leaders.

The visiting prime minister made it clear that such a Europe—"a unity in partnership and not in rivalry" — should work with the Western alliance, the U.S. and the Commonwealth to achieve its aims.

Fanfani, whose government-backed British market membership along with France's four other partners in the prosperous trade bloc, emphasized that the ideal of European unity "was alive among us as it ever was."

Foreign observers regarded Fanfani as aiming at close and continuing political collaboration among the U.S., Britain and Italy in answer to President de Gaulle's veto against British market membership.

JFK Visit U.K. Hope

LONDON (UPI) — Britain hopes for a visit from President Kennedy this spring to explore ways of restoring unity to the Western alliance, diplomatic sources said Friday.

The president has scheduled visits to Rome and Bonn, and Prime Minister Macmillan's government has growing hopes he will stop here as well for talks on how to deal with the disarray caused by France's veto of British Common Market membership.

Interference

MOST CANADIANS will have rallied to the view of Prime Minister Diefenbaker, expressed with rightful indignation, that the U.S. state department's press release criticizing this country's defence policy was an "unwarranted intrusion" into Canadian affairs.

By the method of its issue, bypassing the usual diplomatic channels, it was also a reflection on the sovereignty of this country. If this is an expression of the "get tough" tactics the American president indicated after the Cuban crisis would be followed even if it hurt his allies, the prospects for the future are not promising.

Dean Rusk has since expressed regret for the tone of his department's criticism, obviously in view of the repercussions at Ottawa, but his regret comes rather late. The U.S. statement was a coldly considered one, and must be judged in that light. Irrespective of the nuclear issue itself his department had no right to take the unparalleled action it did.

As to the nuclear policy difference that is the nub of the matter probably it can be summed up in the paragraph which indicts the Canadian government by saying it "has not as yet proposed any arrangement sufficiently practical to contribute effectively to North American defence."

In these negotiations, initiated by Canada to harmonize the joint NORAD operation, has the U.S. proposed any practical arrangement? Obviously only that any agreement must be based on American wishes alone. That is as plain as a pikestaff.

As the trustee of Canada and its interests Mr. Diefenbaker is insistent that this country should not be a mere satellite of its powerful neighbor and, in his own words, that "it will not be pushed around."

It will be a strange Canadian who does not recognize the validity of Canadian independence even when working in concert with the leading and most influential nation of the Western alliance. In matters vitally affecting its own domestic affairs, and its home defence is certainly a domestic matter, Canada must have a say.

It is interesting to note the reaction of the several opposition leaders at Ottawa to the U.S. state department's uncalled-for intervention. Both the NDP leader, Mr. Douglas, and the Socred leader, Mr. Thompson, while not seeing eye to eye with the Diefenbaker government on defence matters, immediately spoke up for their own country. Mr. Douglas termed the American statement "an unprecedented interference in the internal affairs of Canada," and reaffirmed Mr. Diefenbaker's stand that it is for Canada and Canada alone to decide its defence policies. For his part Mr. Thompson described it as "blatant interference."

By contrast the Liberal leader, Mr. Pearson, was much more tepid. His first reaction was to express surprise that the U.S. government found it necessary to issue the statement, but this "was prompted, no doubt, by the desire to help" a confused situation. Presumably in his view Canada was not helping.

Mr. Pearson later found it expedient to join in the chorus of protest and to agree that Canadian policies should be left to Canadians, but his tardy alignment will not have escaped the attention of Canadians at large.

All along in matters affecting the liaison between Canada and America it has seemed as though for Mr. Pearson Washington is always right and Ottawa is always wrong.

Royal Interlude

WHEN the Queen and Prince Philip landed in Vancouver Thursday night they might be excused for thinking they had never left London; the weather with its wintry snow would loom as similar.

Yet it was the weather, creating not alarm but extra precautions, that gave Vancouverites a more intimate royal glimpse than originally expected, and the opportunity to voice their cheers and goodwill.

Royal aircraft passengers are inured to the hazards that may interfere with smooth journeys, having so much plane travel to do in carrying out their duties, but this first leg of their tour of Australia and New Zealand had perhaps more than the usual share of interruptions. To turn back twice, first from Vancouver and again from Honolulu, would be a disconcerting experience. Probably an ordinary flight would have proceeded on schedule but of course this was no ordinary flight.

The plane had a precious cargo. The Queen's safety is a paramount consideration, and it was wisely determined to take no undue chances.

As it happened Victoria almost shared in this brief compulsory royal visit, although the decision not to transfer to another plane in order to spend the night at Government House cannot be faulted. The Vancouver Hotel provided the appropriate facilities.

Victoria was geared in a hurry nevertheless to make the necessary provisions and receive the Queen and Prince Philip with equal enthusiasm, and local officialdom rose to the occasion with commendable promptitude.

All's well that ends well. The Queen's plane has arrived in Honolulu, where if the welcome can be no more sincere the elements will be more kind. There will be relief that no untoward happenings occurred and good wishes voiced for the rest of her journey.

Hansard Titbits

One's Enough

MR. DOUGLAS: . . . This new Liberal policy was made without consultation with the membership of that party and represents a complete about-face from the position which the Liberal party took prior to the last general election. At a Liberal rally in the city of Ottawa. . .

The Chairman: Order. The hon. member for York Centre is rising on a point of privilege.

Mr. Walker: Mr. Chairman, on a question of privilege, the speaker mentioned what happened in a Liberal caucus.

Mr. Douglas: I did not mention a Liberal caucus. I talked about the York-Scarborough convention which was reported in the press. I said nothing about a Liberal caucus. I can assure my hon. friend that I have never quoted anything about a Liberal caucus. I have never been to one and I have no expectation of ever being at one. We have one representative there now and that is enough.

Some hon. Members: Oh, oh.

Mr. Argue: Don't cry, Tommy, you'll never make it!

Mr. Douglas: One does not have to strive to make it; one just backslides into it.

Mr. Argue: That is not how you got out of Regina.

International Commentary

The New Russian Proposals

By W. N. EWER

MR. Khrushchev's new proposals to President Kennedy on nuclear tests are, I think, all the more important because of their evident association with the new Soviet line on Berlin. There is, quite apparently, a new mood in Moscow that reflects a new cautiousness, a new desire to avoid clashes and to lessen tensions with the United States and the Western Powers.

One can hardly doubt that this has been brought about, very largely, by two causes. One is the Cuban crisis. Indeed, Mr. Khrushchev in his letter of December 19 to Mr. Kennedy, specifically referred to the "period of acuteness in the Caribbean." The other, which one would hardly have expected him to mention, is that other "period of great acuteness"—in Sino-Soviet relations.

* * *

Whatever the reasons, the change is a welcome one. Its essential point is that the Soviet government has now withdrawn its absolute refusal to allow (as part of an agreement for the total banning of nuclear tests) international inspectors to enter Soviet territory and carry out "on-site" inspections in certain circumstances.

It was this categoric refusal, reversing the earlier Soviet attitude, which had brought a stalemate to the whole test ban negotiations. It has been, as it were, the key log in a complete log jam. With it removed, the jam is broken. Things can move again.

Another negotiating effort is, in fact, already being made by the representatives in Washington of the three powers—the U.S., Britain and Russia — which form the nuclear sub-committee of the Geneva Conference.

The log-jam, then, does seem to be broken. But one cannot yet feel confident that a test-ban agreement is now "in the bag." What has happened is that we are now, roughly speaking, back where we were in November, 1961, when the Soviet government after discussing the details of international "on-site" inspections for three years, suddenly decided that it would not allow them at all. But not quite back to November, 1961, because since then there has arisen the new factor of the "black boxes" — the "automatic seismic stations" which may help to solve some of the problems.

What are these problems which still have to be solved? They all stem from one premise. It is accepted by all that an agreement for the final ending of all tests of nuclear weapons must be accompanied by agreement on a form of international control and verification which will give a reasonably firm guarantee that such an agreement is in fact being observed by all parties—that there are no clandestine tests, in short no "cheating."

The problem is: to what extent does such a control system require the presence on the territory of any nuclear power of international inspectors or inspection teams? Britain and the United States raise no obstacles. The Soviet Union still insists that this presence, even though only temporary, shall be narrowly restricted. Can a system be devised which will provide the guarantees which the Western powers regard as essential, and at the same time satisfy Soviet repugnance to admitting foreigners to Soviet territory?

There is no difficulty about an agreement to ban tests in the air, under water or in outer space. These, it is now fully agreed, could be detected and verified without any need for stationing observers on the territory of a nuclear power.

All the requisite checks can be maintained from "outside." The remaining problem is that of underground tests. Clandestine underground tests on the other hand, whatever the Russians may say, could not, in all cases, be detected and identified from "outside."

* * *

The problem is a dual one. First, it is necessary that the international control authority should be able to detect and register any seismic event, any earth tremor, which might be the result of a clandestine explosion. For this there must be seismic instruments within range of all areas where such explosions could occur.

This is a little easier than it was. Two developments have helped. First, Anglo-American researches (in which the Soviet Union refused to participate) have given us seismic instruments of much greater range.

Second, the device of "automatic seismic stations" could to some extent make it possible to meet Soviet objections to having internationally staffed control stations on Soviet territory.

But there is the second half of the problem. Suppose that an earth tremor, which could be the result of a clandestine test, is recorded as having occurred in an area which is known to be liable to earthquakes. How can it be ascertained and verified whether such a tremor was caused by an illegal explosion, or simply by an earthquake?

* * *

This is, obviously, a highly complex technical question. I am told that, in some cases, the distinction can be made from afar, and that the new "black boxes" can help in this. I am also told that there still remains a quite considerable class of "events" in which the only way of making sure is by experts going to the "site" of the event and seeing for themselves what it was that in fact happened there.

These would be the famous "on-site" inspections. And this is why the western powers still regard them as quite essential.

So long as the Soviet objection to them remained absolute there could be no prospect of agreement, indeed, of much useful progress. Now that the absolute veto has been lifted by Mr. Khrushchev, the way seems again open for practical discussions, though I can hardly yet agree with Mr. Khrushchev that "all conditions now exist" for the signing of a treaty. There is much work yet to be done.

But, in all this complexity, there is one point which should, I think, be clear. It is this. Neither the United States nor the United Kingdom is raising any obstacles whatever, either political or technical, to the establishment of a completely effective system of international verification.

All their proposals, all their so-called "demands," have been directed to making such a system as effective and as watertight as is humanly possible, and they are asking the Russians for nothing they are not prepared to allow themselves.

* * *

The objections, the demands for restrictions and limitations and prohibitions on the operations of the international control authority have all come from the Soviet government. Mr. Khrushchev has now waived one of the most stultifying of these.

It has to be seen whether this means that he is now prepared to work out practical measures which will make it possible to establish an authority with genuinely effective powers.

Effective control remains the crucial issue.

Many Negative Choices

Problem of Mobility

By DAVID GRENIER

THERE'S a new problem to be faced in the age of automation. It's the problem of labor mobility.

As new areas and new industries come up, job openings tend to expand in one place, decline in another. As a result, a lot depends on how willing people are to move to areas where new openings occur.

From a historical point of view, much of Canadian development — rolling back the frontier, the growth of urban centres and manufacturing industry — couldn't have taken place without an adaptable people on the look-out for new opportunities.

Yet despite this, relatively little work has been done on the factors that influence mobility. It's recognized, for instance, that people often don't want to move or change jobs because they want to protect their pensions (hence the new stress on portable pensions).

* * *

But what of some of the other factors?

These are discussed in the current issue of the Business Quarterly, published by the University of Western Ontario School of Business Administration. It contains a detailed study, by the industrial relations research group of the CNR, on how people react when they're faced with the decision of moving their homes to stay with their jobs.

The study deals with a group of 230 employees affected by the closing of CNR passenger car repair shops at London, Ont., and Moncton, N.B., in 1960-61.

By arrangement with the railway unions, employees were given the opportunity to transfer to CNR shops in Montreal, Winnipeg and Toronto—with a total of 143 jobs being made available.

In the course of their study the CNR researchers got some positive and forward-looking replies. (One sample response: "I have no problem—Toronto is fine. It's nice to get away from the wife.")

But many were negative stressing the difficulties and problems involved in moving. ("At age 55 they won't give me a mortgage" . . . "My children have been in three different schools already. Probably they will miss a year" . . . "We should have had more notice. We can't find a decent house and we won't live in an apartment").

The CNR study concludes that most of those who transferred seemed to adjust better than those who refused to make a move. In fact, many of those who "bumped in" to another job at the local shop — sometimes taking a cut in pay and in status — "seemed to be inflexible, immobilized by fear," says the study.

Family problems, attitudes towards the cities where new openings were available, possible losses involved in selling and moving out of a community—all of these played a part in individual decisions.

* * *

The net result: Only about half the jobs available were filled. About two-thirds of those faced with deciding between transfer and the alternative of resignation and layoff did, in fact, choose the latter.

Obviously there are deep psychological and other barriers that affect the mobility of labor. Only by facing them will it be possible to encourage people to move to jobs instead of relying on moving jobs to people.

That requires a conscious choice between opportunity with growth and security in stagnation.

Stalin's Ghost

By GEORGE NAGY
Secretary-General, Canadian Hungarian Federation

IN HIS latest book, Conversations with Stalin, Milovan Djilas writes that to Stalin "falls the glory of being the greatest criminal in history." Stalin's successors, the present Soviet leaders followed the same line by denouncing his crimes at the Twentieth Party Congress before his own people, and by ousting his body from the Lenin mausoleum.

Such open and demonstrative condemnation coming from the former very faithful supporters and associates of a dead leader would be enough to kill even his memory for generations to come. Yet Stalin's ghost is still very much alive and his shadow is looming high over our heads.

* * *

His spirit has haunted the various Communist Party congresses held during the past months in several East European satellite capitals. It was even embodied — and very strongly, too in the person of Wu Hsiu-chuan, member of the Central Committee of the Chinese Communist Party, who was touring Sofia, Budapest, Prague, Rome and East Berlin as Mao Tse-tung's special representative.

Wu Hsiu-chuan proved himself everywhere to be a true and vigorous preacher of the Stalin doctrine and denounced bitterly those "who by their open and one-sided attack against another fellow party . . . are dividing the international unity of the proletariat." His words were addressed to the Hungarian Party Congress for its criticism of the Albanian party's stand but were naturally directed against Khrushchev and his de-Stalinization campaign.

* * *

The Russians hit back hard. In Sofia, where the first clash occurred, they purged the whole Bulgarian party leadership. But their local victory was far from impressive because, at the Budapest Congress, where Kadar fully supported the Khrushchev line, the majority of the foreign party delegations stood rather with the Stalinists.

Of 60 delegations only 25, including all North American delegates, several West Europeans and the majority of the Arabian representatives, supported the condemnation of the Albanian party; 33, including all Far Eastern delegations (with the exception of the Mongolians), while formally abstaining, showed themselves to be more sympathetic towards the Chinese than the Russians.

Two delegates, namely the Burmese and the Malayan, openly and strongly backed Wu Hsiu-chuan's stand.

* * *

This development came as a surprise to many Westerners, who through the reporting of many of their correspondents often got the wrong impression that the Stalinists, whom we can call Maoists, are pretty isolated in the Communist camp with their dogmatic line.

It seemingly impressed the Russians, too, who started a strong fence-mending campaign, especially among the Communist parties of the Western hemisphere and went over to the offensive against Wu Hsiu-chuan.

* * *

Yet, well-informed observers feel that the Maoists are far stronger in reality than is openly shown at the Western party congresses and that there is real danger that the Chinese hard line is going to prevail in the Far-Eastern parties, in non-Arab Africa and in some parts of Central and South America. The final clash between the two groups is yet to come but the battle lines are drawn and the great contest for leadership in the Communist world is on.

The West can certainly draw comfort from the fact that the Communists, too, have their internal troubles; but it would be a mistake to be too jubilant about it.

First of all, the difference between the two groups is mainly tactical and their goal is the same.

While the Chinese want to kill us off fast and soon, preferably in a hot war, the Russians want to bury us slowly and gradually. Further, the gulf between the Communist and the Western-Christian mentality and philosophy is so deep and so fundamental that genuine and sincere cooperation with even the most liberally-minded Communist leaders is, at the time being, quite inconceivable.

For this same reason, in spite of ideological differences, in a really decisive situation, the Communists of various shades and colors would still stand together against the West.

Useful Skill

By GREGORY CLARK

WHEN you got into the Senior Fourth Book, as grade eight used to be called, one of the things you were taught was how to write a letter applying for a job. I understand you don't write a letter any more. You send for an application form, which you fill out; and then you don't call them, they call you. When called, you come and undergo a series of tests at the hands of a personnel expert.

But a good letter still gets a good job. The general sales manager of a big manufacturing enterprise showed me the letter he himself wrote, fourteen years ago. He found it in the files of the company of which he is now a large ornament.

"Dear Sir," it said. "I may not be as good as I think I am, but I have reached the point at which I am prepared to risk finding out."

The former general sales manager was so impressed with this approach that he hired my friend. And sure enough, the young man turned out to be as good as he thought he was.

"Or better," he admitted modestly, when he showed me the letter.

Defence Pacts

By FLETCHER REYNOLDS
(Ninth Article of a Series)

THE world's greatest military machines face each other across the plains of central Europe. Armed to the teeth, the Western and Eastern coalitions shield themselves under NATO and Warsaw Pact treaties.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization came into being in 1949 as a means of defending Europe from the threat of Communist-inspired aggression.

The Soviet Union reacted by arming its satellite states under a Warsaw Pact for common action.

Of the NATO nations, only the U.S. and Britain are equipped with nuclear weapons. The U.S. is now seeking a common NATO nuclear operation of nuclear weapons among various states. Both Canada and the U.S. are members of NATO.

* * *

Both alliances are condoned by the United Nations under a provision for mutual defence through regional agreements.

Following settlement of the Cuban crisis, there were hints of a much broader East-West detente a relaxation of tension on both sides through settlement of various outstanding questions.

President Kennedy said he was ready to discuss a NATO-Warsaw Pact detente if Mr. Khrushchev was.

There is little real indication, however, that a detente will soon be achieved.

* * *

The U.S. won an acceptable settlement of the Cuban crisis only by standing firm on its insistence that the Soviet missiles there be removed—or else.

The furor over UN ambassador Adlai Stevenson's alleged "soft" stand on Cuba (trading the Soviet missile bases for NATO bases) illustrates American determination to pursue a tough line in dealings with Russia.

Whatever Stevenson actually wanted, it is obvious the U.S. right now is in no mood to discuss a detente — even if Russia were to go along with it—of which the Kremlin has given no indication.

Northern Socred Joins Appeal For Higher Pay

By DON MATHESON

Legislators with limp, lean pocketbooks continue to press Premier Bennett for more pay.

NDP member Frank Calder (NDP—Skeena) started the ball rolling early this week and Social Credit's Dudley Little from Skeena gave it another push Friday.

He asked the government to form a special all-party committee to look into the whole picture of yearly indemnities, and into travelling allowances as well.

"I won't be happy until I at least get expenses to cover my riding, which is the size of Vancouver Island," he said.

CABINET LOADS

On indemnities, he said MLAs shouldn't "settle for less" than those o. Ontario ($8,000). B.C. MLAs now receive $5,000.

He also touched on cabinet work loads, saying Lands and Forests and Commercial Transport Minister Ray Williston "should be given help" while Victoria's William Chant had only "one minor portfolio, public works.

SKILLINGS ONE

Mr. Little also "questioned how much work MLA Waldo Skillings did in a session, because he was one of three Victoria members.

He estimated his expenses to cover his riding at $1,500 more than Mr. Skillings.

One-Nation Parley Due Soon

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker, told the Commons Friday his statement next Monday on bicult/uralism will cover plans being made for a Dominion-provincial conference on the subject.

In the speech from the throne, the government announced it would call such a conference to discuss a national flag, national anthem and other symbols of nationhood.

Trustees Call It Emergency

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government was asked Friday to meet the provinces and work out a national policy to ease the financial strain on education.

The Canadian School Trustees' Association said the shortage of funds for education is becoming a national emergency and could easily become a key issue in the next federal election campaign.

Association executives met Prime Minister Diefenbaker and three cabinet ministers for about one hour and reported later their chief request may be met shortly, at least in part, at the forthcoming federal-provincial conference.

WASHINGTON — The anti-defamation League of B'nai B'rith awarded President Kennedy its 1963 America's democratic legacy gold medallion for giving the nation "new moral leadership."

John D Declares:

We're Not in New Frontier

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has shown it is "not in the new frontier of the United States," Prime Minister Diefenbaker declared Friday.

He made the remark to reporters who asked him for comment on a statement in Washington by U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk that he regretted the tone of his department's criticism Wednesday night of Canadian defence policy but that he believed the facts were correct.

GAVE FACTS

Mr. Diefenbaker said: "I gave the facts and the facts that I gave were correct and proper and I have nothing to add to the impropriety of the state department."

When a reporter noted that Mr. Rusk had said his department's Wednesday statement contained the proper facts, the prime minister said:

"I answered those facts and we do not need any assistance from the state department for, after all, I repeat that Canada is not in the new frontier of the U.S. We have shown that."

MENTIONS TALKS

Mr. Diefenbaker said in the Commons a week ago that Canada had been negotiating "quite forcibly" with the U.S. for two or three months "so that in case of need nuclear warheads will be made readily available" for Canadian home forces.

The state department said Wednesday the "confidential discussions have been exploratory in nature; the Canadian government has not as yet proposed any arrangement sufficiently practical to contribute effectively to North American defence."

Mr. Diefenbaker referred only to nuclear weapons for Canadian forces in Canada but the U.S. statement said the discussions also took in nuclear weapons for Canadian forces in Europe.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Anglo-American Nassau agreements had "placed under doubt" the nuclear strike - reconnaissance role of the RCAF air division in Europe.

The state department said the agreements "raise no question of the appropriateness of nuclear weapons for Canadian forces in fulfilling their NATO or NORAD obligations."

Mr. Diefenbaker said Friday he would not comment directly on Mr. Rusk's press conference remarks until he had read an official report on them.

Rusk Issues Apology For Tone of Criticism

WASHINGTON (CP) — State Secretary Rusk publicly apologized Friday for the tone of his department's criticism of Canadian nuclear policy and hinted he would like to see resumed private government - to - government talks aimed at providing Canadian forces with nuclear warheads.

At the same time, the U.S. Senate foreign relations committee announced it will launch a formal investigation Monday into the department's handling of the controversy and called George McGhee, 50 - year - old state undersecretary for political affairs, as the first witness.

Senator George Aiken, Vermont Republican who will head the closed - door subcommittee hearings, said he is deeply concerned by press reports that the Canadian government feels "it has been put under undue pressure to accept nuclear arms from the U.S."

TO ATTEND HEARINGS

Senator J. William Fulbright, chairman of the full committee, and Senator Mike Mansfield, Senate majority leader, plan to attend the hearings which, under the reported present schedule, may be concluded in the one day with planned subsequent disclosure of some of the conclusions by Aiken; a close friend of Canada.

Crop Benefits Near in B.C.

Agriculture minister Richter told the legislature yesterday to expect the first phase of a B.C. crop insurance program in the near future.

A pilot program of crop insurance for the tree-fruit industry will come first, if it is deemed feasible.

Until the tree-fruit program is working, other crops could not be covered, but Mr. Richter noted potato crop damage on Vancouver Island and the Lower Mainland.

His department also has authorized a grant for a research program on Christmas tree production.

A government spokesman said legislation covering public access to Crown lands held by tree farm licencees is almost sure to come before the legislature.

Draft legislation is expected to clear an access committee of deputy ministers next week and will immediately be put before the cabinet for approval. If the cabinet approves the legislation will come before the house.

Water-bombing forest fires cost B.C. $248,000 in 1962, says Forests Minister Williston.

Most of the money, $200,837, went to Skyway Air Service Ltd. for plane rentals. Pacific Western Airlines was paid $1,598. The rest includes costs of fire-retardant chemicals and their mixing.

Basic Rights Denied Says MLA

Revision of outmoded House rules was urged in the legislature Friday to end discrimination against private members.

Arthur Turner (NDP—Vancouver East) said that while delegations of private citizens could meet with the government to express opinions, House rules deny the privilege to MLAs on grounds that this could interfere with the "prerogative of the Crown."

Another rule, which put 11 motions out of order on the last day of the last session, bans any motion that would require expenditure of money.

ORAL QUESTIONS BANNED

Private members' days, provided for in another order, got little respect, he said. Oral questions were also prohibited.

Turning to labor issues, Mr. Turner said hiring of strike-breakers during a legal strike should be outlawed.

Now that Saskatchewan had made medicare the first issue in B.C., he said he wanted to underline the NDP stand that any plan introduced here should be a full-coverage, comprehensive plan barring any private interests.

Author Tells Club

Russia Big Threat In the Middle East

Russia, not China or lesser Communist states, is threatening to weaken the West's position in the Middle East and Africa, a meeting of the Men's Canadian Club of Victoria was told yesterday.

Success will probably be denied to the Communist efforts by reason of the Middle East nations' keen desire for real independence and hatred of European interference from any quarter, Brig. Stephen Longrigg, author of several books on the Middle East, told a meeting of Victoria Men's Canadian Club.

STRONG NATIONALISTS

He pointed out Middle eastern people are strong nationalists.

"Local Communist parties are neither strong nor respected," said Brig. Longrigg. "The present cordiality, promises and gifts will probably not last forever."

He said "satellite status" seemed unlikely for any Middle eastern state and sheer subjection even more so.

"But some sign of Communist economics and politics may well become visible. These may more probably be, if they occur, within a national or Tito-type framework, than as a conscious part of international Communism."

Garden Notes

Not Good Neighbors

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Plant scientists have been engaged for years in making detailed studies of the factors which affect plant growth. They have it all sorted out and volumes have been written on nutrition, moisture and light conditions. But to the best of my knowledge, no scientific institute has ever run any experiments to determine why some plants are good neighbors, while other can't get along with one another at any price.

The old Romans—and very good gardeners they were, too—observed this strange phenomenon and had quite a lot to say about the likes and dislikes of plants for one another:

* * *

"Between the grape and the elm is great sympathy; between the grape and the cabbage, between the grape and the olive is great antipathy. The grape loves not the bay nor his smell and will kill him if he grows near. The burr and the lentil cannot endure one another, whereas the olive and the myrtle embrace each other with root and branch."

It is a curious idea and, while gardeners the world over have observed and noted these strange affinities and dislikes, there is very little to be found in the garden books and encyclopedias on this subject.

The late Louis Bromfield, writing about his famous Malabar farm in Ohio, notes that when beans and corn are grown together, a better crop of each is harvested than when they are grown in separate plots. He also was convinced the common ragweed, so hated and feared by hay fever sufferers, has a strangely vitalizing effect upon the seedlings of alfalfa and clover, and he believed the ragweed contributes some unknown enzyme or hormone to the soil chemistry of his hay fields.

* * *

An ancient belief among old-time English professional gardeners is that tomatoes will not grow anywhere near a walnut tree and that the influence of the walnut extends many yards beyond the possible range of its roots. Scientific institutes looked upon this as a rather silly superstition until the University of Michigan proved its correctness by a series of painstaking experiments, then went on to isolate and identify the inhibiting substance, a chemical called juglone, secreted by the walnut. In addition to tomatoes, quite a few other plants were found to be sensitive to juglone, perishing miserably when planted near a walnut tree.

In Ontario it is common practice to grow pumpkins between the rows of corn and there is a commonsense explanation for this: The broad leaves of the pumpkin vine, growing close to the soil, provide shade for the shallow roots of the corn, while the tall corn creates the light, dappled shade preferred by the pumpkin.

* * *

No such logical explanation suggests itself for the strange fact that the bindweed or wild morning glory will turn aside rather than encounter a gooseberry bush. It is quite a common thing for other neglected shrubs and hedges to be choked and strangled by this pervasive weed, but never have I seen bindweed attack a gooseberry.

I have written before about the violent dislike a peony holds for the elm, but there is one plant the unsociable peony hates even more than the elm—another peony! When setting out peonies, it is necessary to keep them well separated for if they are close enough for the roots to entwine, the plants will not thrive, and may even sicken and die.

B.C.'s Royal Visit — Frenzied Operation

'Piece of Cake' Falls Apart

By BRUCE LEVETT

VANCOUVER (CP)—Thursday was a full day for Ronald Evans when the Queen came to Vancouver.

Ron, district sales manager for British Overseas Airways Corp., is a large, beefy man with a mustache like the rack on a longhorn steer. And he's a calm man.

Everything was laid on long in advance. The Queen's plane would touch down here en route to Fiji. Food would be put aboard and fuel would be pumped into the huge jet.

Then it was out over the Pacific.

"A piece of cake."

* * *

Things began coming unglued for Mr. Evans about 9 a.m. when word came that not only were landing conditions suspect at Vancouver International Airport, but snow was also falling at Seattle, Portland and Edmonton—the alternate landing fields.

Ron was besieged by an army of reporters, broadcasters, photographers, civic officials, airlines personnel — just about everybody in sight.

* * *

Would she land? If so, what time? Was she going back to Edmonton? If she did go back there, when could she be expected to arrive?

Before the word came that the royal flight had, indeed, been diverted to Edmonton, Ron was busy lining up a Canadian Pacific Airlines Britannia—a fast, four-engined jet-prop.

When the word did arrive, he had the Britannia loaded with all the food and other supplies which had been destined for the jet. The fresh crew for the royal plane was put aboard the Britannia and, bringing up the rear, was Mr. Evans.

* * *

He had to oversee the transshipment of crew and goods to the jet in Edmonton.

After various delays, the jet took off for Fiji and Ron took off back to Vancouver.

Half an hour after he landed he got the news—she's coming back.

* * *

Ron had a little over an hour to get TCA to set aside a standby Viscount with crew in case Her Majesty and Prince Philip might want to fly to Victoria to spend the night at Government House. In case she wanted to drive, he fixed things with the government to hold a ferry at Tsawwassen.

And, in case she wanted to stay here, his was the duty of calling Hotel Vancouver and telling them Queen Elizabeth might be dropping in and to please have the royal suite ready. And, oh yes—a couple of floors for the retinue.

There was the mayor to inform; the attorney-general — acting for the premier—had to be told. The RCMP and the city police had to be called back out. He had to make arrangements with TCA to put the royal plane in its large hangar overnight.

An RCMP inspector stepped up. "We'll need about four cars, so we've laid on five."

"Better make it six," Ron said.

* * *

At one point he was surrounded by about 50 reporters and cameramen.

In the end, Ron's preparations paid off. Word came from the air the Queen would stay in the hotel. The Viscount was wheeled away and the crew dismissed. The ferry chugged out into the night.

* * *

The jet landed and in a blaze of light the royal party whirled off.

Ron and a few airport workers stood beneath the giant bird.

From the lush growth on his upper lip, came the summation:

"It has indeed been a full day."

Big Fanny Fails To Reach Queen

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Fanny Storgoff, unofficial leader of Sons of Freedom trekkers, made an unsuccessful attempt to take the group's problems to Queen Elizabeth Friday.

Big Fanny moved toward the Queen and Prince Philip as they left the Hotel Vancouver at 9:15 a.m. Police and the dense crowd kept her from going too close.

Mrs. Storgoff had a letter in her hand. Its contents were not known.

JOHN CROSBY Visits John Huston

Hero Fights Anti-Heroes

LOUGHREA, Ireland—It's the age of the anti-hero, the anti-play, and the anti-movie, and sitting here in John Huston's game room seems anachronistic. Around the walls are Huston's fishing rods and his guns. There are the heads of the water buffalo he shot in the Congo, the tiger he shot in India, the deer he shot in America. There is a brush of a fox killed right here in Galway.

This is fox-hunting country and they'd be riding to them right now if the worst winter in memory hadn't frozen the ground too hard for the horses' hooves. Huston is a huge man cast in heroic proportions and has leanings toward heroic activities. (Ireland itself is anti-pathetic to anti-heroes or, for that matter, anti-plays.)

* * *

Huston's movies — Maltese Falcon, African Queen, Treasure of the Sierra Madre—are about as far removed from Waiting for Godot as you can get.

Huston is planning to make Kipling's The Man Who Would Be King. This is an old dream of his and Humphrey Bogart was to have played, not the man who became a king and a god, but his companion.

* * *

In this day of Ionesco, Beckett, Edward Albee, and Alan Reanais, the very name of Rudyard Kipling is almost as comic as Louisa May Alcott. Well,' he's out of date. The empire he sang about with such thunder has vanished, the heroic mold is out of fashion, but we spoke of Kipling's tremendous gifts—his Dickensian range of characters, his great flare for dialogue, for narrative power.

* * *

"Something I conjecture a lot about is the concept of adventure," said Huston. "Have you ever read William Bolitho's Twelve Against the Gods? He has a definition of adventure in it. Most all adventurers—everyone from Alexander the Great to Woodrow Wilson—ran away from home.

"At some moment in his life, each adventurer was on a path of his own choosing in an uncharted wilderness entirely cut off from the ordinary world.

* * *

"In that sense the John Glenns and the Shepherds are not adventurers at all. They're simply doing what they're told."

I said American movies were hardly wandering the uncharted wilderness. In fact, quite on the contrary, the moviemakers seemed to be remaking all the old movie hits.

Huston is going to do a little wilderness-treading himself, becoming an actor for the first time. He'll play a cardinal in The Cardinal, announcement of which has aroused hoots of laughter the length and breadth of Ireland.

* * *

Wrote Shamus Kelly in the Irish Times: "Yesterday's news that Squire John Huston is to play the part of a cardinal has brought gladness to the hearts of many sporting types who are pleased that the essential asceticism and spirituality which have long been acknowledged as the real mark of Huston on the hunting field and round the poker table have at least been recognized by a casting director."

A splendid bit of Irish prose and Irish irony, and the man who laughed loudest at it was John Huston.

Monaco France Agree

MONTE CARLO (UPI) — France and neighboring Monaco have agreed in principle to a new treaty governing relations between Paris and the tiny principality, authoritative reports said Friday.

Formal talks broke down in October but were resumed last month. Trouble between the 368-acre principality and France began when France cast envious eyes toward French companies establishing "headquarters" here to avoid French taxes.

At the beginning of 1962 Charles de Gaulle unilaterally renounced the old agreement which provided no taxes on Monaco. France turned on a harrassing operation late last year, setting up a customs barrier around the seaside paradise.

Protestant Churches 'Not Ready' for Unity

By MIKE GADSBY

Protestant churches are not ready to come together in a complete union, Rev. William Hills of St. George the Martyr Anglican Church, Cadboro Bay, said Friday."

Mr. Hills was commenting on a report that barriers had been cleared for the union of the three major Protestant churches by 1965.

INDIVIDUAL CONVICTIONS

"Although I do not believe union would obliterate the convictions of the individual churches that now keep them apart, I do not feel they are yet ready to come together," said Mr. Hills.

"Men cannot be pressed into one mold either politically or spiritually," he said.

Commenting on the Anglican Church's refusal to accept the validity of the orders of Methodist ministers who had not had the hand of a bishop laid upon them, Mr. Hills said that while his church does not deny the effectiveness of such a ministry, it does not believe it is a complete ministry.

"We believe in the apostolic succession of bishops," he said. "We feel that ordination of United Church ministers, or Methodist ministers in England and the United States, is not as complete as it might be.

WILL NOT BUDGE

"The Anglican Church will not consider union until it can be achieved without our having to move one iota from the acceptance of the Lambeth Quadrilateral.

"We would, however, be prepared to enter union with any Christian communion which would accept its four points.

"The points include acceptance of the Apostles' creed and the Nicene creed; acceptance of the canonical scripture of the Old and New Testaments; acceptance of the two sacraments—baptism and communion, and belief in the historic ministry of bishops, priests and deacons.

"Only under this condition will the Anglican Church be able to accept union with other Christian churches," he said.

January Cold But Dry

Although Victoria experienced lower than normal temperatures during January, it enjoyed a precipitation level more than two inches below normal.

Total precipitation for the month was 2.19 inches, well below the normal of 4.39. Only .3 inches of snow fell during the month; five inches is averaged.

BELOW NORMAL

Mean January temperature was 2.5 degrees below normal at 36.9.

Normal maximum of 51.4 was below the 52.1 reached Jan. 1, and minimum temperature of 16.9 degrees was well below the normal of 24.8.

Sunshine was also well above normal, with 81.7 hours recorded as to the normal 70 hours. Windspeeds averaged only 9.2 miles an hour instead of normal 12.4.

Religious Freedom 'Suffers'

GENEVA (Reuters)—Marcel Pradervand, general secretary of the World Presbyterian Alliance, said Friday many Protestant churches "still suffer from Roman Catholic intolerance and do not yet enjoy real religious freedom."

He said no progress can be made in inter-confessional relationships "until the Roman Church unequivocally accepts the principles of religious liberty for all minorities."

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

The spontaneous enthusiasm with which the 400th anniversary of the Heidelberg catechism was celebrated and the popularity of the new translation were joys to those of us who feared the day of catechisms was ended.

We thought they were a casualty of Dewey's educational theory that one should "draw children out" rather than force knowledge into their dear little heads.

Most children are brought up on an Emily Post Christianity—being awfully nice, or a Dale Carnegie Christianity—how to succeed, or a simple gospel Christianity—being a Christian without believing anything.

We still hear the cry for a creedless Christianity, prating about a man without sin, a Christ without a cross, and a God without judgment. Though parents vow at baptism "to instruct the child in the truths and duties of the Christian faith" (what liars some of them are!) and children pass through at least six years of Sunday school instruction, religious ignorance is astonishing.

Flower and Fruit

There is good reason to call the Heidelberg confession the flower and fruit of the European reformation. Its genius is proved by the fact that in 400 years it has lost nothing of its appeal or vitality, but is as fresh and relevant as the day in which it was written.

The great Calvin never did approve it, though it is steeped in Calvinism. It avoids extremes, keeps clear of the horrid vituperation found in many confessions and catechisms of the time, and exercised a strong mediating influence between Lutheran and reformed teaching.

We should always remember, however, that creeds were battlecries; no good creed is ever written in the peaceful seclusion of a professor's study. It required great courage to write a creed since a wrong word could be fatal.

Men were burned at the stake for wrong opinions just as today "deviationism" in the Marxist, Communist world is a fatal sin.

One of the greatest virtues of the Heidelberg catechism is that it combines piety and goodness, faith and life. On the one hand it escapes the arrogance of men who say, "My religion is doing good," which at best results in a boneless chicken stewed in cream. On the other hand the catechism, with its magnificent ethical thrust, escapes a dry, bloodless intellectualism.

New Trouble In Borneo?

LONDON (UPI) — Britain Friday rejected the Philippine claim to sovereignty over North Borneo, one of the three British dependencies on the island where new troubles from Indonesian-backed rebels appeared to be brewing.

The official Indonesian Antara news agency said two divisions of "volunteers" were poised to join the rebels in British Borneo. Britain recently bolstered its military forces on the island.

Group Hears About Lepers

Victoria Christian Business Men's Committee International held its monthly dinner last Monday at Holyrood House and heard Rev. A. Bateson, regional secretary of the International Mission to Lepers, speak on the film Lifted Hands.

State of Malawi

Nyasaland Independent

ZOMBA, Nyasaland (Reuters) Nyasaland became a self-governing country Friday and its first prime minister, Dr. Hastings Banda, declared it now is "a black man's country in a black man's continent."

The American-trained Negro physician, who practised medicine for many years in London and Liverpool before returning here in 1958, said the day marked the beginning of "the state of Malawi"—officially a self-governing British protectorate.

TO SECEDE

He announced that Nyasaland will secede from the Central African Federation of Northern and Southern Rhodesia and Nyasaland and "our independence will start a chain of reaction in Africa."

Nyasaland, with its 3,600,000 people, is one of three territories that were joined in 1953 to form the federation. Northern Rhodesia is a partially self-governing British protectorate and Southern Rhodesia is a self-governing colony.

WILL CHANGE NAME

Observers said one of the new government's first acts will be to change officially the country's name to Malawi, the African name for Nyasaland.

Nyasaland's population, all but 19,000 of them African Negroes will celebrate the achievement of self-government for three days.

Meanwhile in Salisbury, South Rhodesia, Banda's political foe, Federation Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky, held talks with British Central African Affairs Minister R. A. Butler.

Welensky, it is believed, fears Britain intends to permit Northern Rhodesia, which also has a new Negro-led government, to follow Nyasaland's example and secede from the federation.

A motion in the Northern Rhodesian parliament calling for secession was expected to be approved early next week.

Political observers in Salisbury saw little hope for a compromise that could preserve the federation.

Rains, Snow Plague U.S.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Torrential rains Friday triggered multi-million-dollar floods in the U.S. far west, a near-blizzard storm closed schools and blocked highways in the northern plains and vicious winds caused an estimated $200,000 damage at the Air Force Academy in Colorado.

A bitter new cold wave started a southward drive across the plains, and heavy snows slugged the central and southern Appalachians.

Meeting Postponed

Lets Off Steam

Toe Blake in 'Glue' For Ref Remarks

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League Friday opened an investigation into remarks Montreal Canadiens coach Toe Blake is reported to have made about referee Eddie Powers following the Canadiens' 6-3 loss to Toronto Maple Leafs Thursday night.

Blake was quoted as saying among other things that Powers handled the game "as though he had bet on the outcome" and that Powers was "working against the Canadiens."

Blake later denied making the remark about the bet.

He said he was "awfully peeved" after losing the game and said he "let off a lot of steam."

But he said he also told reporters that "what's the use of blaming the referee—our team just quit and that's why we lost."

He also said he was furious with himself for losing his temper and arguing with Powers after Toronto scored a goal in the second period—an argument that led Powers to assess Montreal a bench penalty.

"That was bad and after it happened some of the players looked as though they were using what I did as an excuse," he said.

NHL president Clarence Campbell said an investigation has been started but declined to comment further until it is completed.

Blake was quoted in the French - language newspaper Montreal Matin as saying that "instead of discussing the case of Don Gallinger, the league would be better off to investigate its officials because after the way they handled themselves tonight they gave the impression that they had bet on the outcome of the game."

IN DRESSING ROOM

The Montreal Star said Blake unleashed a tirade in the dressing room after the game.

"Don't tell me he's not working against us," Blake was quoted in The Star. "He lets everything go and then he calls a chippy penalty against us."

Powers called a total of nine penalties against Montreal, including two misconducts, a game misconduct and a penalty shot. He hit Toronto for four penalties—three minors and a misconduct.

BENCH PENALTY

One of the Montreal penalties was a bench penalty assessed after Blake argued bitterly with Powers against a Toronto goal that tied the score 2-2 midway through the second period.

Frank Selke Jr., director of public relations for the Canadiens, also was quoted as blasting the refereeing.

"I don't know how much referees get for each game, but if he (Powers) got more than $10 for tonight's game he was overpaid," he was quoted as saying in the French - language La Presse.

FAIR CALL

Blake was quoted in The Star as saying the penalty shot awarded to Toronto's Red Kelly midway through the third period was a fair call. Kelly scored on the shot.

But Blake was quoted as adding:

"Why don't they give us one now and then when the same thing happens?"

IN TROUBLE BEFORE

Blake has been in big trouble with the league over officials once before. In the playoffs two years ago he was fined $2,000—the biggest fine ever levelled by the NHL—after he punched referee Dalton MacArthur following an argument.

There are six NHL games scheduled this weekend. Tonight Chicago is at Montreal, New York at Toronto and Detroit at Boston.

Sunday it's Montreal at Detroit, Toronto at Chicago and Boston at New York.

Martin Rink On Sideline In Curling

Final draw: Cooke vs. Bailey; Martin vs. Binns.

NANAIMO — Flora Martin of the Victoria Curling Club lost here district championship in the ladies' provincial curling playdowns on Friday when she was beaten on successive draws by Marg Cooke and Win Bailey of Vancouver.

Mrs. Martin had opened Friday's play with a victory over June Binns of Chilliwack but the two defeats put her out of the running for the right to carry on to the B.C. final, next weekend at New Westminster.

Mrs. Martin has a 2-3 record, while Mrs. Bailey is 4-1 with one game left for all four rinks. However, Mrs. Cooke can force a playoff if she can defeat Mrs. Bailey this morning. Mrs. Cooke was left facing the need of beating Mrs. Bailey twice when Mrs. Binns defeated her, 11-3, in last night's draw.

Mrs. Martin trailed Mrs. Binns, 5-0, after three ends in the morning game Friday but three-enders made it an 11-7 win. But the Victoria rink lost a 5-3 lead against Mrs. Cooke and four on the eighth end was the deciding factor. Mrs. Bailey stole single points on the sixth and ninth ends in Friday's third draw for the difference in a 6-4 win.

Kidd Streaks To Record Win

NEW YORK (CP) — Bruce Kidd of Toronto ran his fastest time ever in the two-mile run Friday night, winning the event at the Millrose Games in eight minutes, 41 seconds flat — almost a full second faster than his previous best.

The 19-year-old University of Toronto student set a meet record for the event, easily beating Charles Clark of Los Angeles, who came on in the last lap to take second place over Max Truex of the U.S. Air Force.

Kidd lapped most of the field and finished nearly 40 yards ahead of Clark. The Toronto East York Track Club runner set the pace from the beginning. It was the second fastest indoor two miles ever run.

Kidd's previous best time of 8:41.9 was set outdoors. His previous fastest two miles this year was in Boston three weeks ago, where he did it in 8:43.2, winning the event at the Knights of Columbus meet.

DIFFERENT STORY?

So far this year Kidd has won everything he has entered. However, the story may be different tonight.

Kidd says that he is thinking of entering the mile race in Philadelphia today—a distance at which he has never had much success.

The indoor two-mile record of 8:34.4 is held by New Zealand's Murray Halberg, who was the official starter for Friday night's two-mile event.

Previous Millrose Games two-mile record was 8:52.8, shared by Greg Rice and Al Lawrence.

NEW YORK (AP)—Igor Ter-Ovanesyan of Russia smashed the world indoor broad jump record when he soared 26 feet, 10 inches Friday night in the Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden.

A standing-room-only crowd of 16,712 gasped as Ter-Ovanesyan, who has a world outdoor record of 27 feet, three inches pending, leaped to the indoor record on his second jump. On his first try he fouled.

The listed indoor record is 26 feet, 6¾ inches set by Ralph Boston of Tennessee State in 1961.

Esquimalt Chiefs bombed a short-handed Navy club, 7-2, last night in their battle for first place in the Esquimalt and District Amateur Hockey League, and Victoria University Vikings took advantage of their last "bonus" game to beat Army, 10-2, and move into a third-place tie.

Playing before 1,500 fans—largest crowd of the season—at Esquimalt Sports Centre, Chiefs had little trouble with Navy as the Sailors played without seven regulars.

Regular goalie Norm Jones has a cracked elbow, and Dave Davidson, Gordie Morris, Pat Cain, Ben Weber, Ron Cooke and Lou Darsche were on duty.

Keith Lawrence scored three goals for Chiefs, Bob Fowler got two, and Doug Couch and Ron Marshall scored once. John Morris and Jack McEvoy scored for Navy.

Viking, whose last three games were worth four points for any they could win in order to catch them up in the schedule, lost the first two but had more than enough to win last night and tie Army for third place.

Doug Bambrough scored three goals, Ted Sarkissian and Jim Wilson added two, and Fred Veysey, Glen Vickers and Jack Blair got the others, with Fred Bridges and Cal Kemp scoring for Army.

First-Half 'Nap' Costly to Chiefs

By JIM TAYLOR

Haida Chiefs slept early and woke up late last night, and New Westminster Bakers beat them, 83-80, to tie their best-of-five inter-city basketball semi-final at one game each.

For 20 minutes they played silly, irresponsible, utterly ridiculous basketball. Then, after trailing by as much as 17 points, they tore into Bakers and came bitterly close to winning the whole thing anyway.

Tonight they go back to Central Junior High School gym for the third game, and if they remember nothing else they would be wise to remember one thing: nobody can spot a team like Bakers 17 points and ever hope to beat them.

And yet, they almost did, and with any kind of performance in the first half they would be one step away from sewing up the series.

CAUGHT FIRE

Led by Ken McCulloch's finest effort of the season, they caught fire midway in the second half, twice got within three points, fell behind by seven, and finally got back within one point with 55 seconds left to play.

An underhand layup by Bill Spotswood made it 79-78, and Chiefs actually had possession of the ball with 50 seconds left as Bakers were called for travelling. But a desperation shot by Bob Tomlinson went wide, and Mike Penney raced down floor to score for Bakers.

OUT OF REACH

Wayne Osborne was fouled as Chiefs scrapped for the ball, and sank one shot of two. A basket by Darrell Lorimer cut the score 82-80 with five seconds left, but Penney was fouled and sank one shot to put Bakers out of reach to stay.

That last-half drive proved Chiefs are capable of playing and beating Bakers. But nothing could really make up for that first 20 minutes, when Chiefs showed their biggest crowd—375 fans—their worst basketball.

GRABS SHARE

Chiefs beat Bakers, 63-59, Wednesday in New Westminster by slowing the play down, bottling up Bakers' fast-break, and getting their share of the rebounds. It was a sound formula, one they went out last night to try again.

But Bakers scored in the first three seconds, and Chiefs forgot everything. They tried to run with Bakers, and there isn't a team in B.C. basketball that can do it. They let Bakers play their own style of game, the style that won them the league championship last year, and they ignored the backboards like the plague.

EARLY LEAD

Bakers gratefully gobbled up almost every rebound, loped down the floor, and shot, sinking 23 of 45 shots from the floor in the half to build up a 47-34 lead.

Hottest of them all was Dunc McCallum, who got all 14 of his points in the first half. But Bakers are a team built on balance, and everybody took turns hurting Chiefs. Dave Osborne got 16 points, Wayne Osborne got 13, Doug Carter 12 and Rod Thompson 11.

Norris Martin scared 22 points, Darrell Lorimer got 16 and McCulloch 15 for Chiefs.

Bakers—Penney 7, McCallum 14, Thompson 11, W. Osborne 13, Carter 12, D. Osborne 16, Spencer 6, Farenholz 4. Total—83.

Chiefs—Wilson 12, Devlin 8, Lorimer 16, Spotswood 2, Martin 22, McCulloch 15, Tomlinson 5. Total—80.

Last night's scores: Los Angeles 1 at Seattle 1, Portland 4 at Vancouver 1, San Francisco 6 at Edmonton 4.

Home games tonight: Portland at Seattle, Los Angeles at Spokane, San Francisco at Calgary.

Four more goals will make Gordie Fashoway, 36-year-old left-winger with Portland Buckaroos, the highest scorer in the history of professional hockey.

Fashoway, who has announced this will be his last season, last night made it 12 consecutive seasons in which he has scored 20 or more goals in the Western Hockey League with the last goal of the game as the Buckaroos bested the Canucks, 4-1, at Vancouver.

The goal gave Fashoway 469 goals for his 12 seasons in the WHL, a stretch which has seen him never fail to get less than 33 goals in his first 10 seasons, then fall to 29 last season because of injuries. In addition, he scored 69 goals in U.S. Hockey Association play and three in the National Hockey League in a brief chance with Chicago Black Hawks.

It adds up to 541 goals, only three fewer than scored by Maurice Richard.

Guyle Fielder and Nick Mickoski, another pair of veterans, also featured WHL news last night.

Mickoski drew an assist as San Francisco Seals defeated Edmonton Flyers, 6-4, to tie the injured Phil Maloney for the scoring lead with 61 points. And Fielder pushed his point total to 80 by getting three assists and a goal as Seattle Totems trimmed Los Blades, 5-1.

Desert Sandstorm Can't Stop Nicklaus

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—National Open champion Jack Nicklaus battered par and battled a desert sandstorm Friday in firing a five-under-par 67 for a 54-hole score of 202 and a commanding lead of five strokes in the $50,000 Palm Springs golf classic.

The 23-year-old Nicklaus got in his best shots before a high wind blew up in the afternoon, then managed to coast home on his last nine holes in even par.

Nicklaus played the Bermuda Dunes Country Club course, which has par of 36-36—72.

His nearest rival, with two more rounds to go in this 90-hole golfing marathon, was young Johnny Pott, who had a 70 for 207. Alone at 208 was another longshot who remained in contention, Bob Shave Jr., with a 72 for 208.

Nicklaus started the round with a one-stroke advantage over Shave and South Africa's Gary Player.

Player encountered the same burst of wind and sand and for the first time in three days his putter failed him. Player ended with a 73 and a tie at 209 with Al Geiberger, who shot a 68, and Gardner Dickinson who had a 70.

The defending tournament champion, Arnold Palmer, after making a challenge to get back into the picture with two strokes under par for his first nine, took a 38 on his final nine for a 71 and a total of 214.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver was among six golfers at 213. Leonard had his second successive 70 Friday.

Sponsor Raises Purse to $50,000

B.C.'s Open Chances Improve

MONTREAL (Special) — The prize money for the Canadian Open was not only raised from $30,000 to $50,000 at the annual general meeting of the Royal Canadian Golf Association Friday, but it was made clear by the sponsoring firm of Seagram's that it would consider British Columbia as a possible venue for future opens.

This year's contest is to be held at Scarboro, Toronto, and in 1964 a Montreal club, so far unchosen, is under consideration.

However, a spokesman for Seagram's said it was the RCGA which had the final word in the choice of venue and he corrected the previously held view that his firm would not agree to sponsor the open in B.C. because of the existing liquor laws.

He added that these regulations would make it more difficult to promote the open in B.C. than it would be in eastern Canada. He also said that there was an additional difficulty in getting a date in Vancouver which would conform to the location of the U.S. PGA series of tournaments.

Last fall the RCGA turned down an application by Shaughnessy golf course to hold the 1964 Open at Vancouver because of opposition by Seagram's. The B.C. Golf Association countered this by suggesting that the RCGA should find another sponsor rather than allow B.C. to be deprived of its share of the Canadian Open because of Seagram's opposition.

It would now appear that the way is open to Shaughnessy to renew its application for the Open, either in 1964 or in a subsequent year.

Certainly the new contract between the RCGA and Seagram's has reopened negotiation possibilities for B.C. because the new contract for $50,000 prize money is for two years only. The contract it superseded was for five years.

At the annual meeting the choice of Royal Colwood for the 1963 Canadian junior championship, Aug. 27-30, was confirmed.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Although the Green Bay Packers have won the western division the last three seasons, they still are under the .500 mark over the last 10 years in National Football League competition.

Cookie Bankrupt

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Fullback Cookie Gilchrist of the Buffalo Bills, voted the most valuable player in the American Football League in 1962, filed a bankruptcy petition Friday in federal court.

Gilchrist, 27, listed liabilities of $59,397 and assets of $7,400, including a $5,000 home in Port Credit, Ont., and a $2,000 automobile.

He said much of his debts were to Canadian creditors. He said he was connected with two businesses in Toronto, where he played football with the Argonauts in the Canadian League before coming to Buffalo.

His earnings last year were $28,000, he said.

Burns' Net Profits About $607,000

Burns & Co., reports the 1962 net profit of the meat packing firm and its subsidiaries is expected to be approximately $607,000.

J. Howard Kelly, president, said that while the annual audit has not yet been made the figures compare with a 1961 profit of $12,227 after dividends of $407,350 from subsidiaries and the recovery of $365,183 from the government on income tax.

The gross revenue from the meat operations in 1962 will be $493,000, compared with a loss of $660,000 in 1961.

Mr. Kelly said dividends from subsidiaries, Palm Dairies Limited and Consolidated Fruit Company Limited, will be $101,000 lower than the previous year.

The improvement in earnings is attributable to a general re-organization of operations across the country, he said.

The company is planning a $5,000,000 capital expenditure program during the next two years, which includes a new plant at St. Boniface, Man., to replace the Winnipeg plant, new feed mills in Calgary and Montreal and Plant rehabilitation in Calgary, Edmonton and Kitchener, Ont.

The U.S. will build between 800 and 1,000 new shopping centres this year, says the International Council of Shopping Centres. Most of them will be in the smaller neighborhoods and service centres.

Violamac Mines Ltd. has declined to take up its option to buy 200,000 shares of Dickenson Mines Ltd. at $2.50 a share. The option terminated Jan. 19.

Province Lush, Undesirable Says CIL Chief

VANCOUVER (CP)—President Leonard Hynes of Canadian Industries Ltd. charged Friday Premier Bennett is misleading the public with claims B.C. is debt free.

Mr Hynes, in an interview here, described the province as a "lush but undesirable part of Canada."

REPELS INVESTMENT

He said the province's economic climate repels new industrial investment.

The CIL president was commenting on a statement earlier in the week by Board of Trade President W. M. Anderson that eastern Canadian businessmen are laughing at B.C.'s industrial prestige.

Mr. Hynes asked:

"With all its great resources, how can B.C. go out and compete on export markets when its business climate is made undesirable by uncertainty about its government?

LOT OF TROUBLE

"What we hear about B.C., 3,000 miles away isn't necessarily the truth. But, what we do hear is that there's a lot of labor trouble, high wage rates and a bad government.

"If they're saying this in eastern Canada, you'd better pay attention to it and do something to change it. You've got a bad reputation."

Youth Twists Nude on Ice

VIENNA (Reuters) — Hungarian newspapers say a teenaged boy danced the twist in the nude on the frozen-over River Danube at Budapest as thousands of people watched from the banks.

After a pursuit over the ice, police nabbed the youth and took him to hospital where he was found to have an overdose of bottled "anti-freeze."

Speeder Too Speedy Coming and Going

VANCOUVER (CP)—Gerald Robert Ewen, 20, who drove his car at 55 miles an hour backward during a police chase, was fined $200 Friday. He was also ruled off the road for two years.

Police said he travelled at speeds of 80 miles an hour forward during a chase, then reversed.

New Gear

Loading more than 1,000,000 feet of lumber at Ogden Point, 16,000-ton Norwegian motorship Varangfjell soon will leave for South Africa. Freighter has been taking cargo at Vancouver Island ports. Addition of loading gear recently converted the 510-foot vessel from bulk carrier to general cargo ship.

Eskimo Saved From Ice Pan

MONTREAL (CP) — John Asee, 31, an Eskimo plucked from an Arctic ice pan after two days of exposure, arrived Friday night and entered Montreal General Hospital after a 1,300-mile mercy flight from Frobisher Bay.

Dr. J. T. Shepherd of the national health department in Frobisher Bay, Baffin Island, said amputation of both feet and possibly both hands, will be necessary to save his life.

In a telephoned report to Montreal, Dr. Shepherd said the Eskimo told him he and three companion fell asleep on the ice three nights ago and awoke to find themselves drifting out to sea.

The three companions are dead. Two drowned attempting to reach shore, another was attacked and killed by their sled dogs.

The surviving Eskimo managed to fight off the dogs and he was spotted Thursday by an RCMP airplane on the east coast of the Cumberland Peninsula.

Icy Roads Ignored For Concerts

DUNCAN — Approximately 300 people last night braved cold weather and icy roads to reach Cowichan Senior Secondary School auditorium to hear Elgar's oratorio The Dream of Gerontius. Former Victoria Symphony Orchestra concertmaster Clifford Evens conducted the orchestra.

The Victoria University choir was directed by Boyce Gaddes and the semi-chorus by Capt. James Gayfer. Soloists were Peter Telland, Gerontius; Randall Marsh, priest and angel of agony, and June Gruber, angel.

The combination of orchestra, soloists and choirs was well received by the Duncan audience for whom this season's concerts ended last night.

City Dairies Will Sign Union Pact

Four Victoria dairies have agreed to sign a new contract providing improved fringe benefits but no pay increase for 175 milk sales drivers and dairy employees.

Settlement came in the face of a vote 81.5 per cent in favor of strike action. The one-year agreement will be retroactive to Oct. 1, 1962.

Ben McCrone of Vancouver, spokesman for Local 464 of the Milk Sales Drivers and Dairy Employees Union, said Palm, Northwestern, Shepherd's and Island Farm dairies will sign the new agreement soon.

'Grand Design' Opener?

France, Russia Sign Pact

MOSCOW (UPI) — France Friday signed a three-year trade agreement with the Soviet Union providing for an increase of 10 to 15 per cent in trade between the two nations, French diplomatic sources here said.

The value of goods to be exchanged was estimated at between $1,000,000,000 and $1,200,000,000. It was understood the Soviet would export coal and oil to France while the French would ship industrial equipment to the Soviet.

Disclosure of the agreement came three days after France had vetoed Britain's bid to enter the European Common Market.

It followed a spate of speculation in European capitals that French President Charles de Gaulle was stepping up a grand design plan envisaging a "Europe from the Atlantic to the Urals."

A French source said the agreement covered the years 1963, 1964 and 1965 and called for an increase of trade "in the two directions."

Trade talks between Paris and Moscow had been resumed here about a week ago following a break-off last June 13 caused by Soviet insistence on enjoying the same trade benefits France granted to its fellow Common Market members.

Victorians Camp In 51-Below Zero

Four Victoria men are setting up a camp in 51-below-zero weather on the ice of Prince Gustaf Adolph Sea in the Arctic, according to a short-wave message received from the group by the Pacific Naval Laboratory.

PNL Expedition Ice Pack III, headed by scientist Allen Milne, 537 Prince Robert Lane, arrived at Isachsen, Northwest Territory, last week.

"They have set out from Isachsen," Dr. F. H. Sanders, PNL superintendent, said, "and will establish their camp about 10 miles offshore."

The group will spend February recording underwater background noises.

Other members of the expedition are Victoria scientists Ray Brown, 3730 Casey Drive; John O'Malia, 306 View Royal; John Ganton, 1209 Rockcrest, and driver mechanic Yvon Perron of Ottawa.

Russia Knew In Advance

OSLO (AP)—The independent newspaper Morgenposten said Friday "we know" President de Gaulle has maintained unofficial contact with the Russians "and in advance informed them" of the breakdown of the negotiations for British entry into the Common Market.

The newspaper says "there is reason to believe that he (de Gaulle), vis-a-vis Moscow, has aired the main lines in his view on the new orientation in Europe."

The statement was written by the paper's east European correspondent, Jan Otto Johansen.

Molester Near School?

A suspected child molester has been operating around the North Ward School in the 2600 block Douglas Street, city police were told yesterday.

Teacher Don McKinnon told police Friday the man, dressed in a black suit and hat, attempted to lure four girls into a vehicle Thursday by offering them rides and money.

Youth Stabbed In Back

By TED SMACKLEFORD

A 16-year-old Victoria youth was stabbed in the back as he sat at a lunch counter in a downtown store late Friday afternoon.

The victim's name and address are being withheld by city police for his protection, but his father told the Colonist last night the boy was not seriously injured.

"He was stabbed with a pen-knife and he was wearing a thick overcoat, a sweater, a shirt and underwear and I guess the knife couldn't go any further in than about a third of an inch."

City detectives are seeking the knife-wielding assailant who is a stranger to his victim. He is six feet tall, black long hair, darkish skin, wearing a green and white bulky knit sweater and dark slacks.

SITTING AT COUNTER

The 16-year-old was sitting at the lunch counter in the Metropolitan Store, Douglas at Yates, at about 4:30 p.m. Friday, when the man approached him from behind and stabbed him in the ribs on the left side.

After the stabbing the assailant left the store and had a fight with another youth, outside, before disappearing in the crowd.

DIDN'T KNOW MAN

The boy told police he had never seen the man before but would recognize him again.

"He isn't hurt too bad," the father said. "He's at the Armory tonight. We didn't want him to go but he insisted on it.

"I think he (the assailant) must be mental. Anybody in their right mind wouldn't do anything like that."

VMD Given $1,000,000 Contract

A $1,000,000 heat exchanger contract has been awarded to VMD by Pacific Petroleums, president Harold Husband told the Colonist last night.

The heat exchangers will be installed in the world's largest gas processing plant to be built by Pacific Petroleums at Empress, Alta., following approval by the National Energy Board.

"These will be the largest heat exchangers ever constructed for natural gas refrigeration," he said.

Underwater television camera is centre of attraction for four oceanographic scientists now at Pacific Northwest oceanographers' conference at Empress Hotel. They are Dr. G. L. Pickard, UBC; R. H. 130 Scientists Discuss World Under Water

By DON GAIN

Everything from bathythermographs to plankton samplers are being discussed at the Pacific Northwest oceanographers' conference which opened at the Empress Hotel Friday and will wind up today.

More than 130 scientists from Canada, the U.S., Hawaii, Turkey and India are discussing underwater physics, chemistry, biology, geology and zoology.

Dr. J. P. Tully, oceanographer in charge of Pacific oceanographic group in Nanaimo, which is playing host to the convention, put it this way: "We have the university people, professors researchers, hydrographers, army, navy, air force and some industrial organizations, all seeing how the other half lives."

DISTINCT ADVANCES

"Several quite distinct advances have been documented in the mathematical descriptions of how winds, waves and currents flow in the sea. From these mathematical models we can make forecasts," he said.

"A paper given this afternoon by Dr. Robert Stewart of UBC brought out the fact there is a very real depression in the mean sea level during big waves, this is every seventh or 10th, and in ocean waves this could be as much as two feet."

FOUR GROUPS

Four main groups represented at the convention are the POG, Nanaimo; the Institute of Oceanograph, UBC; the Oceanography department of the University of Washington and the Pacific naval laboratory, Esquimalt.

Aldermen Agree

Keep Firm Stand In City Sign Issue

Aldermen agreed yesterday Victoria should "hold the line" against further encroachment upon sign regulations.

The move, recommended at a joint meeting of both major council committees, finance and works, followed nearly two years of steady watering down of the original draft by-law to regulate signs.

The meeting also approved the last two of 15 amendments proposed by the local sign industry over the past year.

BYLAW WORKABLE

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman, said the bylaw would bring some aesthetic improvement and is workable while "not putting any of the sign people out of business."

The joint meeting agreed to ask the legal department to include specific provisions covering signs in the special area surrounding the legislative precinct and Cathedral Hill when the bylaw comes to city council for final approval.

Ald. J. L. W. McLean said he wanted to be sure that no provisions in the bylaw were left solely to the discretion of city council.

"If this was the case, council would be left open to any pressure group," he said. "And what then would become of all the hours put in by the special sign committee to come up with workable regulations?"

Ald. McLean said if there had to be further changes in the future these should be done by amending the bylaw.

EXTEND ZONES

It was agreed city council should receive a recommendation to extend the sign zones in Victoria West and James Bay, in the latter case principally to include Ogden Point docks.

The meeting also agreed to addition of a three-by-four-foot addition to the existing Empress Motor Lodge sign indicating it was affiliated with the Canadian Motor Hotel Association.

A further request to extend the Victoria West zone to include a junkyard operation, which is ringed by a number of billboards, was turned down.

IN FIVE YEARS

Under present regulations the billboards will have to be removed in five years.

City planner Roderick Clack opposed the suggestion billboards should be permitted in residential areas where, as in the case of a junkyard, they would serve to hide the clutter behind.

Mr. Clack said the junkyard in question caused the city no trouble and was controlled by regulations which governed award of an annual permit for its operation.

BLIGHTING EFFECT

"It is well known that billboards have a blighting effect on residential properties," the planner said.

Ald. Edgelow said if council didn't stick by its regulations "there will always be somebody wanting them extended just across the road." He added, "we must be strong and stick by our bylaws."

In House Monday

The throne speech debate continues Monday at 2 p.m. with Alex Matthew (SC—Vancouver Centre), David Barrett (NDP—Dewdney), Harry McKay (L—Fernie) and Cedric Cox (NDP—Burnaby) speaking.

At the night sitting Health Minister Martin will speak, followed by Patrick McGeer (L—Vancouver Point Grey) with his maiden speech and Randolph Harding (NDP—Kaslo Slocan).

Buyers to Meet

Dinner meeting of the Vancouver Island branch of the Purchasing Agents Association of British Columbia will be held at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

Sudbury Union Fight Spreads to Province

Reverberations of the bitter union jurisdictional battle that shook Sudbury, Ont., last year appear to have spread to British Columbia.

A group of workers at Craigmont Mines near Merritt has applied for a vote to decertify Mine-Mill and Smelter Workers as their representatives.

Headed by W. Neufeld, described as "secretary, Craigmont Workers Committee," the group says it wants to join the United Steelworkers instead.

TWO UNIONS

The two unions are the groups that were involved in the Sudbury conflict.

A labor relations board hearing on the vote application will be held Feb. 12 in Vancouver.

The group claims it represents 211 of less than 300 Craigmont workers, and that more than 200 signed Steelworkers' union cards in the six days to Jan. 28.

A letter signed by Mr. Neufeld, and sent to cabinet ministers, the B.C. Federation of Labor, other labor groups and newspapers, says the group has been contacted by many other unions.

"We have decided to join the United Steelworkers as we believe one strong democratic union is better than the pro-company Mine-Mill," the letter says.

Labor Minister Peterson commented Friday decertification applications are "serious matters."

NOT OVERNIGHT

"They are not things that can be handled overnight," he said, "and are considered very carefully by the board."

Mr. Peterson said he was sure the board was handling the case with the usual careful consideration.

The group complained in a telegram about the time between their petition, Nov. 29, and the date set for the hearing.

Labor Hall Low Bid $147,980

Low bid to build the new Victoria labor headquarters was a slim $2,020 under the $150,000 estimate.

Architect Wilfred Wilkinson Friday opened six bids on construction of the auditorium-office building at Quadra and Market. Almost $12,000 separated high and low bids.

Patterson Construction Ltd. bid $147,980, lower than the next bid by more than $3,500.

OTHER BIDS

Other bids were: G. H. Wheaton Ltd., $150,534; E. J. Hunter and Sons, $154,734; M. P. Paine Co., $155,500; Dillabough and Luney, $159,677 and Farmer Construction Ltd., $159,885.

An official of the Victoria Building Co-Operative Union said directors will meet during the weekend to consider the bids.

They will then be presented to the annual meeting of the co-operative Monday at 8 p.m. in the labor headquarters on Pandora.

Closed Session Here

A-Arms Rift Discussed

Political and military defence experts discussed the current controversy over nuclear arms for Canada behind closed doors in Victoria Friday.

Following an all-day seminar on Canadian defence, an RCAF officer ranking high in the Canada-U.S. North American Air Defence (NORAD) organization declined to comment on Canadian defence problems.

NOT THE DAY

Air Vice-Marshall M. D. Lister, deputy chief of staff (operations) at NORAD, was obviously referring to current arms debate in Ottawa when he said: "I'm sorry, but this just isn't the day for servicemen to be talking to the press."

Other participants in the seminar were C. M. Drury, Liberal member of Parliament, A. B. Patterson, Social Credit MP, Harold Winch, New Democratic Party MP; Egan Chambers, Conservative former parliamentary assistant to the national defence minister, and Gen. Charles Foulkes, former chairman of the Canadian chiefs of staff.

OTHER ASPECTS

Following the seminar, chairman J. G. Grant of the University of B.C. confirmed the current nuclear weapons dispute was discussed along with other aspects of Canadian defence.

"It was just like it is in the press," he said. "Nobody was sure."

Aim of the seminar was to give background information on NORAD, what it is and does, and the problems it encounters.

The seminar is to be repeated in Vancouver today.

Heaviest Death Toll in B.C.

Life from 20 to 39 Most Dangerous

Most dangerous age group for British Columbia residents is the 20 to 39-year bracket.

Figures released Friday by the provincial government's division of vital statistics show more accidental deaths have occurred in that age bracket than in any other over the past five years.

In 1962, for instance, 297 people between 20 and 39 died through accidental causes. The figure in 1961 was 280; in 1960 it was 281; in 1959 it was 289 and in 1958 it was 263.

Overall, 1,158 persons died because of accidents in 1962, compared with 1,007 in 1961; 1,040 in 1960; 1,030 in 1959, and 968 in 1958.

Traffic accidents caused most deaths in the five-year period—385 in 1962; 320 in 1961; 302 in 1960; 315 in 1959, and 280 in 1958.

Second highest toll was taken by accidental falls—180 in 1962; 167 in 1961; 204 in 1960; 157 in 1959, and 159 in 1958.

The figures also show the most dangerous single place, apart from the highways, is the home.

In 1962, 287 accidental deaths occurred in the home; 241 in 1961; 221 in 1960; 230 in 1959 and 171 in 1958.

Next most dangerous was the place of employment—107 died at work in 1962; 84 in 1961; 116 in 1960; 123 in 1959, and 111 in 1958.

City Willing to Talk About Bastion Swap

By IAN STREET

The city is prepared to negotiate a property swap with the provincial government for the old courthouse on Bastion Square.

The building, vacated last year, is key to re-development of historic Old Lower Town, and would be in turn leased to one or more local organizations who would put it to a new use.

But there is still some puzzlement in city hall over Public Works Minister W. N. Chant's offer to make the swap for city-owned property in the legislative precinct.

The only city property in the precinct consists of a handful of vacant lots with a market value of about $15,000.

There is, of course, also the James Bay firehall which lies on the fringe of the precinct, but it is assumed the government isn't seeking this property.

Value Varies Greatly

The valuation of the old courthouse building also appears to leave considerable room for negotiation. Mr. Chant said it was worth approximately $125,000. Unofficial city hall estimates range from $50,000 to $80,000.

The government is willing, however, to have an independent appraisal of both building and city property offered in exchange. This will also, most likely be agreeable to the city.

Mr. Chant disclosed yesterday the government has opened negotiations with the city for disposal of the courthouse. The minister said he made an initial offer to Mayor R. B. Wilson.

Mayor Wilson said yesterday he was "encouraged" that the government had taken the first step in disposing of the unused building.

"The offer of a property exchange may well open the door to acquisition by the city of this historic building," the mayor said.

Mayor 'At a Loss'

He added: "I'm rather at a loss to understand, however, what Mr. Chant means by requesting the exchange of city property of equal value within the legislative precinct. The city doesn't own that much property in the area."

The city nevertheless will be "glad to discuss alternate proposals" with the government, Mayor Wilson said.

He stressed the city must be realistic in its negotiations and added therefore "we cannot assume that the old courthouse has a high market value."

The minister said it would be up to the city what was done in Bastion Square afterwards.

The courthouse building has been suggested as the home of an arts centre and school of music and as a maritime museum. Mr. Chant suggested it could be put to a combination of uses.

The legislative precinct covers part of the James Bay area. The government, through its Capital Improvement District Commission, has been buying up property for future expansion of the legislative buildings.

Deadline Extended

Deadline for tenders on a $2,000,000 federal forest research laboratory in Saanich has been extended from Jan. 30 to Feb. 13. It is believed some contractors needed more time to prepare their estimates.

Council Cuts Down Winter Work Plans

City council members yesterday cut back a proposed $274,350 winter works program to $76,350—leaving in only those items currently considered essential.

The city will actually get $143,500 worth of work for its contribution when grants from senior governments are included.

The remainder of the proposed winter works program will come up again for consideration at budget time. Projects that pass muster will be included in the fall winter works program.

WORK APPROVED

Those approved by yesterday's joint meeting of finance and public works committees are:

Juvenile detention home, $100,000 (city's share $45,000); Pemberton Park grading and landscaping, $8,000 ($5,750); Beacon Hill Park greenhouse, $6,500 ($4,800); storm drain Michigan-Oswego, $18,000 ($13,000); sewer Wilson Street, $5,000 ($3,600); Beacon Hill path construction, $1,000 ($800); concreting unkept boulevards, $5,000 ($3,600).

Wanted: Island Caves

Know any good caves?

If you do, a Seattle physician who recently led a scientific group exploring the caves at Horne Lake would be interested in hearing about them.

Dr. William Halliday said in a telephone interview from Seattle last night preliminary reports on the first scientific study of the Horne Lake caves ever made should be available in a week or so.

A group of members of the Cascade Grotto of the National Speleological Society visited two of the three caves at the lake during the first week in January. They hope to return some time for further study.

Dr. Halliday said the group would like to hear of any other little-known caves in the Pacific Northwest. His address is 1117 East 38th Avenue, Seattle.

Purchase Studied

Film's Viking Ship New Park Feature?

Purchase of a 70-foot Viking ship, built for a movie, is being considered by promoters of the planned Sherwood Forest commercial recreation park on the Gorge.

Promoter Milton Tisdale said Friday he wired New York inquiring about the ship and was informed it was available "at a price within our budget," although it needs a new motor and sail.

NORWAY BUILT

The ship was built in Norway in 1956 to the pattern of ancient Viking ships and sailed across the Atlantic for use in filming the motion picture, The Viking.

Mr. Tisdale said if the new park were to purchase the ship—and it was "a thing that could happen"—it would probably be sailed down the U.S. east coast, through the Panama Canal, and up the west coast to Victoria.

PUBLICITY-GETTER

This voyage would itself be quite a publicity-getter for the new park and for Victoria, he said.

Sherwood Forest promoters had planned to have two 50-foot Viking-style ships built to take customers between the Inner Harbor and the park.

SCENIC TOURS

Mr. Tisdale said the movie ship might replace one of those in promoters' plans or both might still be built and the movie ship used for scenic tours of the Gorge.

The ship is to be discussed at a meeting of promoters Monday.

Woman Hurt In City Crash

A 68 year-old Saanich woman was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital Friday with shock, body abrasions and a fractured heel suffered in a city traffic accident.

The accident was at the intersection of Bay and Government Streets about 2 p.m.

Mrs. Sarah Rosvold, 220 Tolcross Avenue, was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Arthur. The accident happened when Mr. Tolcross drove south on Government and turned east onto Bay.

Other car involved in the accident was driven by George Lasanko, 2568 Prior, north along Government. Mrs. Rosvold's condition last night was described as "good."

Winter Stops At Rockies

By JULIE CLARK

Most Victorians if given a mid-winter holiday, would fly to the sun. I wanted to find the cold and the snow, a real Canadian winter, so I went to the East.

In nine days away, six days and nights were spent on the train, my travelling hotel.

I left "Canada" with the snow, the fur hatted businessmen and bilingual conversations.

We on the West Coast, unfortunately to my way of thinking, experience a completely different way of living in the winter. The greater percentage of Canadians bundle up for carnivals, skiing and skating. They are used to sub-zero temperatures and a white blanket that makes the dirtiest slum look picturesque.

ROADS CLOSED

While away, I felt that a certain comradeship develops when people face the common discomforts of the winter weather. Roads are closed and cars get stuck to name a couple of the irritating problems that daily face the Easterner.

But, like all newcomers to the cold, I had to rush out at various stations hoping to experience an all-time temperature low.

At Winnipeg, I wondered why no one was on the streets. When I realized my face and legs were becoming stiff with cold, I knew why. Visions of half-frozen pioneers rushed to my mind and I was in some doubt if I would make it back to the train. Once in the heat again, the crystal popped out of my watch, from the sudden change of temperature and resulting contraction.

I was told in a nonchalant tone by a native that it was 30 below.

Boots, I decided, upon arrival in Ottawa, were just too inelegant for the Chateau Laurier. I was promptly asked where my boots were and told "You're in the East now!" From then on I found myself muffling up for the briefest outdoor excursion, mukluks and all.

Warm as the hotel seemed, I had to bundle up for the night, too. With cotton wool in my ears, socks, dressing gown and swathed in a scarf, I felt reasonably cosy. By taping the curtains to the wall I managed to keep out draughts.

SMART UNIFORM

Although fashion houses have been telling us "boots are big this year," I didn't realize how big until last week. Tight-fitting leather boots to mid-calf are an absolute must for the smart girl in the East. Topping these should be a leather coat, which like all coats worn there, must not come below the knee. "Nose cone" hats, in any fur, complete the uniform.

THE 'LOOK'

In my low boots and wool coat I tried to look as Eastern as possible. This requires above all else, a facial expression affectedly oblivious to the state of the weather and which in fact seems to enjoy the searing winds.

However, I only felt I had really arrived when I, too, could delight in the minor sport of disobeying traffic signals. A little hesitant at first, I soon trusted cars to stop on the snow-packed streets, as I sauntered across on red lights. But, I might add, it would take someone braver than I to indulge in this pastime in Victoria, under the best of conditions.

Speaker Says

Neutrality Important To the Middle East

Brig. Stephen Longrigg in his address "Middle East Panorama" to the Women's Canadian Club at the Empress Hotel yesterday said that he could only give a general picture as there were no clear-cut lines in the large, populous, complicated area.

The attitude of, "does the Middle East matter to us or should we turn our backs," was answered by the brigadier. He stated that "it cannot help but matter" and explained why.

The countries of Middle Asia, the central area of the old world, contains vital communications, the narrow seas and straits, "so hard to defend and so easy to attack" where the world's shipping must pass through.

OIL TREASURY

The areas around the Persian Gulf are a unique treasury of oil producing 65 per cent of the world supply, Brig. Longrigg said, and added that as we are in an oil age it is obvious that the Middle East matters tremendously.

"We would like to maintain a decent position and goodwill with the people of these lands but we are not getting it," the speaker said.

BLAME WEST

One of the main reasons for this non-pro-Western attitude was that the Arab world places the blame on the west for allowing the Jewish people to take Israel. This country had been Arab from the 7th century AD and thousands were literally "kicked out" to make way for Jews from all over the world.

This fact has caused an eternal, lasting resentment, Brig. Longrigg said.

COMMUNIST?

The big question of whether the Middle East will go Communist hangs in the balance, the speaker said. Personally he doesn't think so.

He said Russia has beamed her powerful propaganda to these countries since 1945 without making too much headway.

The explanation for this, according to the speaker, was that the countries realize their desirable position of neutrality between the two great power blocs.

IN THE MIDDLE

They are sitting in the middle and taking the good things from both even though their position would be bad in the case of war.

Brig. Longrigg gave a background picture of the countries involved, showing the great changes that have come in the last 20 to 40 years.

Many have become sovereign states and are intensely proud of their status. Others operate under dictatorships or republics.

The former rulers, the small upper class of the old aristocracy, landowners, rich merchants and high officials have gone. Today it simply does not exist.

The middle class has taken over and become all powerful. It is the army officers, the engineers, doctors, shipping agents and lawyers who are in the saddle.

But there is no racial unity, no shoulder to shoulder policy in the Arab, Islam world, the speaker pointed out.

They will sing the praise of democracy but are far away from putting such a system to work, he stated.

Brig. Longrigg was introduced by president, Mrs. F. M. Corbett and thanked by Mrs. T. H. Johns.

AMY By Harry Mace

"I can't come out—why don't YOU come in?"

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm so upset I don't know where to turn. My mother who lives 22 miles from here had a stroke. I've had to spend a lot of time relieving my older sister who is trying to care for her.

When I go to mother's my husband takes care of our 17-month-old daughter. Three weeks ago when I came home, I found a note saying my husband had taken the baby to the hospital. She had fallen out of her high chair. Fortunately no bones were broken.

Last night I found a similar note. This time, the baby suffered a broken arm. When I went to the hospital this morning the doctor questioned me at length. It seems this is the fourth time in a year our child has been brought in. (I didn't know about the other two times.) The doctor suspects my husband has been beating the baby.

Can this be possible? If it's true what can I do? Please help me—I am a nervous wreck.—EDNA.

Dear Edna: A University of Colorado team investigated the "battered child syndrome" recently and found 302 cases in a single year. The parents usually deny beating the child. The high chair excuse is the most popular.

A parent who would beat a youngster is deeply disturbed emotionally and the child should be protected against such brutality. Keep your eyes wide open and if there is further evidence, by all means get this man out of your home and into treatment.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: I was shocked recently when, at a social gathering, an officer of a bank had one too many martinis and began to speak openly about the financial problems of two of his clients.

Last night, at another social affair, a nurse who is employed in a doctor's office revealed some highly personal information about a prominent woman who is a patient.

I always thought individuals who dealt professionally with the public had a moral obligation to keep their mouths shut. It seems unspeakable that they would use confidential information for social chit-chat. Is there something I, as one person, can do to combat this sort of thing? I am—HORRIFIED.

Dear Horrified: Yes. You can do business with another bank and go to another doctor. And if the question is ever raised as to "why," you can explain—leaving out all names of course.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 15 year-old girl who is crazy about horses. I belong to a riding club and we meet every week. My parents are not what you would call rich, so I really appreciate this luxury.

The more I see of horses the more I yearn to have a horse of my own. I know my folks can't afford to buy me a horse, at least not for quite awhile.

My grandmother is a shut-in. She was injured in an accident a long time ago and never goes anyplace. Mother says she has a large bankbook and gets a regular income from some property. She never spends any money on herself, so she must be saving a lot.

I want to ask her if she will buy me a horse and board it. It would mean the world to me and I think she could do it with no trouble. What do you say?—UNDECIDED.

Dear Undecided: I say take your big eyes off your grandmother's bankbook. You don't ask people to buy you a gift, regardless of how much money they have. And it may well be that your grandmother needs every bit of what she has to care for herself in her remaining years.

9 IN MEMORIAM

KELLY — In memory of mother, Vida Kelly, who passed away Feb. 2, 1962.

Assignments With Federal Electric On the DEW Line
(Distant Early Warning System)

THESE positions are in the radar picket line guarding against attack across the Arctic. The job is not for everyone. It takes a special breed of man. If you qualify, the rewards are rich in personal satisfaction and opportunity, and in valued technical experience, and in the once-in-a-lifetime chance to build a sizeable financial reserve.

HOW THESE 18 MONTHS CAN PUT YOU 3 YEARS AHEAD IN EXPERIENCE

You will be acquiring unequalled technical background with some of most advanced electronic equipment in use today, a fact that can significantly shorten the lead time to highly rewarding positions in the future. FEC will help pave the way to career growth with a policy of tuition refund upon completion of approved technical correspondence courses.

WHAT'S LIFE LIKE ON THE DEW LINE? It's adventurous living in the rugged north. The camp sites are modern, comfortable, and outdoor recreational facilities are provided. And the food—it's excellent.

AFTER THIS—WHAT'S NEXT? When you complete the 24-month contract, you may then be offered an opportunity for an additional 12-month period at higher pay. Many of FEC's DEW Line technicians take advantage of this opportunity. You will also be considered for other positions in the vast International Telephone and Telegraph System.

YOU CAN QUALIFY . . . If you are in prime physical condition and able to pass preliminary technical and psychological tests. You must also be a graduate of a recognized college with two years of maintenance experience in the following areas:

Communications
Carrier, Multiplex
Beatier Frequency
VHF or UHF Microwave
Maintenance Experience

RADAR
Ground Radar Systems or Warning Radar Systems

If you have the necessary qualifications, please write giving full details of your education and experience. Qualified applicants will be notified when interviews will be conducted in their locality.

WESTERN RED CEDAR "FOREST" SIDING

Chosen from especially selected logs to bring out all the distinctive character of the knots, burls and grain of Western Red Cedar.

How does "FOREST" compare with other sidings?

Its greater thickness adds structural strength to the building. Its snug "back to the wall" fitting makes for fast application because it goes on like shiplap. Its greater volume gives a high insulation value.

Winning Contract

To defend successfully, a defender often needs to keep careful track of the declarer's hand. The picture may be obscure in some details and the defender may have to make an assumption about declarer's unknown cards to give himself a chance. This proved too difficult for East on this deal.

After opening with a strong two-bid, South naturally rebids his suit over the negative response. This permits North to deduce that South is exposed in one suit, with a good minor suit and all suits guarded, he would raise two no trump to three no trump when responder has a guard in the opener's weak suit. The solution is for the responder to bid the suit he guards if he can do so at the three level.

If North in this case had held queen-jack-small of hearts and no club honor, three no trump would be easy and five diamonds nearly hopeless. Needless to say, if North bid three hearts and was raised to four hearts, he would quickly return to five diamonds. Even with his actual heart holding, North might have tried three hearts. Although it fails as the cards lie, three no trump is a better contract than five diamonds.

South ruffed the second round of hearts and led five diamonds, discarding dummy's last heart. East showed signs of embarrassment in discarding and reduced himself to three cards in each black suit. When the last trump was led for a spade discard in dummy, East also threw a spade and an endplay followed: the spade ace-king and a club to the nine forced East to lead away from the club king.

The contract would have failed if West had signalled his length in one black suit, or if East had discarded faster, or if East had realized after thinking that he must keep a heart and not a spade. If declarer has the third spade instead of a third club, East can be endplayed however he discards.

The full high basement has a professionally finished rumpus with bar, and extra bedroom or sewing room and a two-piece bath! Lovely, easily cared-for garden lot. Sounds like a good deal, and it is! 15-ROOM MANSION IN OAK BAY
Here is one of Oak Bay's finest estates in an imposing setting on a large property in a very acceptable area. Immediately upon entering the wide entrance hall you are impressed with the spaciousness of this grand home. Imagine a living room nearly 30 ft. long with an attractive bay window and large fireplace. The dining room with its own fireplace is 20x15. This is indeed a home that was created to entertain. All told there are 15 rooms plus three bathrooms. The many bedrooms average 15x12 and there is ample closet space. The full basement has automatic hot-water heating system and laundry facilities. Outbuildings consist of a one-room cottage, a greenhouse, and a double garage. The exterior is part stone and part stucco. This home has been well maintained over its many years. A conservative estimate is that it would cost five times the asking price to build today. Only because this home is too large for the average requirements is it priced so low. Like Hovercraft

Vehicle For Sea Or Land

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) George Cocksedge, a sign painter with a mechanical mind, is equally at home on land or water in a vehicle he has designed, using the principle of the hovercraft.

The craft, which looks something like a tank and skims over the ground or water a few inches above the surface, was built in 18 months by Mr. Cocksedge with the help of his wife and two sons.

TWO-CYCLE ENGINE

It's eight feet wide, 17 feet long, built of wood, plywood, fibreglass and aluminum and powered by a 35-horsepower, two-cycle engine of the type used by the RCAF for target aircraft.

It can accommodate five adults and is lifted by a propeller built into the hood-type front. There are also hulls and the vehicle can float easily.

FLAPS, RUDDERS

Flaps and rudders built into the back enable it to slow down or change direction.

"With this craft a sportsman can go out on the water or over it all the year round instead of spending thousands of dollars on a boat he can use for only a few months," Mr. Cocksedge says. "Also this craft would be ideal for patrol and water safety."

SEEKS BACKER

The inventor, who says he has never had any special training for this sort of work although he was employed by an aircraft company at one time, is looking for a backer. He says a craft constructed professionally and powered by an air-cooled engine would be capable of travelling over ice-covered water, marshland or plowed fields with equal ease.

Beggars Slain by Police

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — A score of unexplained deaths are being reinvestigated in connection with last week's disclosure police have been killing beggars "to keep them off the streets."

Officials said more than 20 bodies recovered from the Guarda, Guandu and San Francisco rivers during the past year may be related to the police scandal.

Five policemen admitted they had killed three beggars and thrown their bodies into Rio's rivers. Their only explanation was they wanted to stop their begging.

Half a dozen beggars now in jail charged, however, some policemen have been seizing money and valuables belonging to persons arrested by the beggars' and vagrants' squad.

Prisoners who protested often disappeared, the beggars said, or were threatened with disappearance.

Air Crash Kills 54 On Ground

ANKARA (CP) — A passenger airliner and a military plane collided mone to mone in a cloud bank over this Turkish capital Friday, plunging as flaming wreckage into bustling crowds in the city's main square and killing at least 71 persons, 17 aboard the planes.

Police said nearly 200 persons were injured, about half of them seriously, in the worst disaster of its kind in Turkish history.

SIU Move

Norris Asked To Quit

OTTAWA (CP) — The Seafarers' International Union of Canada Friday called on Mr Justice T. G. Norris to disqualify himself as federal investigator of labor troubles and shipping disruptions on the Great Lakes.

The Vancouver jurist heard the SIU's argument and opposing views from other parties, then reserved his decision until next week.

91st DAY

The surprise move by the 15,000 - member Seafarers' Union came at the 91st day of the federal labor inquiry.

Indications were that the judge would reject the union's bid to have him step down.

This could open the way for SIU action in the courts to disqualify the judge, although an SIU spokesman said no consideration had been given to such a step.

ACTED FOR UNION

The SIU, under fire before the federal inquiry commission by the Canadian Labor Congress, based its bid for a self-imposed disqualification on the technical, legal ground that Mr. Justice Norris had acted as solicitor and barrister-counsel for the SIU 10 years ago.

Mr. Justice Norris said he found it strange that the SIU would ask him to step down as inquiry commissioner because he had acted successfully on the union's behalf in 1953-54 on the west coast.

Border Balks Romance

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pretty 24-year-old Frances Morgan is heartbroken.

The U.S. government ordered her deported from Seattle back to Canada in December, but her American husband is still going to Seattle Pacific College.

Frances met Allen Morgan two years ago in Seattle when she was studying there on a student's visa.

* * *

A year later they were married. Frances got her visa extended a year—but it expired last year.

Now she is living in Vancouver while her husband is still in Seattle, studying.

"We have petitioned the senator for Washington State," said Frances. "But it doesn't seem to do any good."

Two Japanese May Lead Varsity Plan

By PAUL WILLIAMSON

Two Japanese students may be the first to benefit from Victoria University's Student council plan to bring foreign students to the campus.

The students, who would arrive here in September, would be the first of what the council hopes will eventually be 10 foreign students studying at Victoria University.

FINANCIAL ASPECT

The problems facing the council over the project are largely financial, since the administration, although it has been approached about waiving fees for the foreign students, has not given official support to the plan.

The foreign students would have to pay their own way to and from Victoria, but the student's council would provide a scholarship totaling $500 over the academic year.

Diefenbaker Silent On Dissolution Issue

London Surprised

We're Usually So Genteel!

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's argument with the United States over nuclear defence is being watched in London with polite interest and a certain mild surprise.

"Not often Canada gets on the front pages," said one British observer. "You're usually so genteel. And what happened to all those speeches about the longest undefended frontier?"

Asked for less lighthearted comments, spokesmen for the Commonwealth relations office and the foreign office recoiled. "Not normally our practice to comment on this sort of thing," one source said crisply.

One unofficial reaction to the Canadian-U.S. tiff is that the Western alliance is in "enough trouble" already after this week's developments in Brussels, with France shutting Britain out of the Common Market and commentators talking sombrely of "the funeral of Europe."

Articles have already been written about the decline of NATO. Canadian displeasure with the U.S. state department, if still evident at the NATO meeting in Ottawa next May, will hardly provide the harmonious atmosphere conducive to easing strains in the alliance.

THREATS POSSIBLE

The Manchester Guardian, in a Washington dispatch by Hella Pick, said Washington is "certainly considering whether to threaten Canada with a withdrawal of some of the important defence contracts" placed in Canada by the U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—Fresh from a 40-minute call on Governor-General Vanier that sparked new speculation about dissolution of Parliament, Prime Minister Diefenbaker late Friday went into conference with External Affairs Minister Green and the Canadian Ambassador to Washington.

Ambassador Charles Ritchie was called home from Washington in the wake of a mushrooming controversy with the United States over nuclear arms policy.

He and Mr. Green were ushered into the prime minister's private office across the hall from the Commons chamber, where the possibility of dissolution was the chief topic of conversation, if not of actual debate.

The conference lasted about 45 minutes and Mr. Diefenbaker, when questioned by reporters, called it "just a review of the situation." He said there would be a morning cabinet session.

Later, he entered the government lobby behind the Commons chamber, chatted with supporters and left for his office.

Columbia: Things Look Bad

WASHINGTON (AP)—A government official who has been involved in negotiations with Canada regarding that country's ratification of the proposed Columbia River treaty said Friday "things look pretty bad."

The official, who asked not to be named, told a reporter the situation had been looking bad for some days, even before Prime Minister Diefenbaker accused the United States Thursday of butting into Canadian affairs in regard to nuclear weapons.

SOME DAYS

"I've been pessimistic now for some days," the official said.

"We had expected to hear something from the Canadians about the middle of December, and certainly during January, as the result of recent meetings and conferences.

"We haven't heard a thing. I also regard as negative the developments in regard to nuclear weapons."

NOT DONE SO

The United States ratified the Columbia treaty on March 16, 1961 but Canada has not done so.

Interior Secretary Stewart Udall expressed optimism at a press conference five weeks ago. He said at that time that a great deal of progress had been made in a series of shirtsleeve talks.

Stupid Bid? Court Says No

LONDON (AP)—South bid one spade. North sued for libel and the hand wound up Friday in the high court.

South was bridge expert Edward Mayer, north was Victor Mollo, equally expert, and he held this hand:

Spades: 7, 6, 3.
Hearts: ace, king, 4, 3, 2.
Diamonds: 3.
Clubs: 6,5,4,3.

* * *

Could anyone possibly bid two clubs on that lot? And would it be libellous to suggest that he could?

Mollo quoted the hand in his recent book, Modern Bidding. Mayer reviewed the book and the hand in a magazine called The Listener and said Mollo recommended a two-club reply. Mayer wrote:

* * *

"It is all very well to make the cheapest response to your partner's opening bid to allow him manoeuvring space but I am not convinced that a bid of two clubs is a commercial response to one spade."

Mollo complained to Justice Sir William McNair that he never recommended a two-club bid on that hand and to suggest he did held him up to ridicule. He brought expert witnesses to say the only possible bid would be two hearts.

* * *

Mayer, bridge correspondent on The Times, claimed the review was fair comment. He brought in experts to say that no bid of any kind can ever be called ridiculous as long as it fits with a bidding system.

Justice McNair—"a very humble bridge expert with no great claims to orthodoxy" — dismissed Mollo's suit against Mayer and the BBC, publishers of The Listener.

* * *

"The words complained of would not be regarded by ordinary, reasonable people as disparaging," said the judge. He ordered Mollo to pay the costs of the three-day hearing.

BOY DIES IN POND

—Bob Clarke

John Middlemas, 2527 Bazan, comforts his wife as Sidney volunteer fire chief Arthur Gardner, right, and fireman Wilkie Gardner, left, carry drowning victim John Middlemas, 5, to ambulance.

Melting Ice Claims Child

A five-year-old Sidney boy slipped to his death through the melting ice of an irrigation pond in North Saanich Friday afternoon.

John Middlemas, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Middlemas, 2527 Bazan, was visiting the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Gray, 9205 East Saanich Road, and was playing with their daughter, Carrie, 4, when the tragedy occurred around 3 p.m.

TERRIBLE STATE

Mrs. Gray was "in a terrible state" following the accident, her husband told the Colonist last night.

"They were playing in our woodshed," Mr. Gray said. "My wife went out and told them to keep their mittens on. Five minutes later she went out and they were gone."

Mrs. Peter Whitehouse, who lives across the road from the irrigation pond, notified her husband, who is a volunteer fireman and the Sidney fire truck and ambulance were on the way in minutes.

An inhalator was applied for half an hour but failed to revive the boy, and he was pronounced dead by Dr. D. R. Ross.

MOVED TO B.C.

The Middlemas family had just moved to B.C. in October from Edmonton. Mr. Middlemas, who is a sheet metal mechanic, brought his family from London, England, about five years ago when he came to Canada to work on the now-defunct Avro Arrow project.

He is now employed by Fairey Aviation Company Ltd. at Patricia Bay airport.

TWO SISTERS

In addition to his parents, the boy is survived by two sisters, Brenda, 16, and Lynn, 8, and two brothers, Alan, 12, and Robin, 10.

The irrigation pond where the boy met his death is on the property of C. O. Myers, 9105 East Saanich Road. Sidney firemen, under Chief Arthur Gardner, had to climb a wire fence to get to the pond. They used a ladder to go out on the ice and retrieve the body.

'SPARK OF LIFE'

"There seemed to be a slight spark of life in the boy when we got him out but we weren't able to revive him," fireman Wilkie Gardner said.

The Middlemas boy's death was the second within a month as a result of thin ice. Daniel Belfour, 7, of 2774 Winster, was drowned when he fell through the ice of a Langford pond Jan. 10.

Blanket of Snow

A freakish storm subsided Friday after bringing up to 22 inches of snow to Washington state, but the weather bureau said another, milder, disturbance was on the way.

New Blizzard Bitter Cold Hit Prairies

(From Canadian Press)

A blizzard screamed across the southern Prairies Friday and knifed into northwestern Ontario and the northern United States.

Driving winds piled up drifts that brought highway traffic to a near standstill in Alberta and Saskatchewan, blocked at least one highway and halted an air search for a missing plane in Manitoba.

Sub-zero temperatures added to the discomfort.

The blizzard, second in 10 days, started late Thursday night. It moved across the open country with winds gusting to 50 miles an hour. Visibility in many areas was reduced to near zero by wind-whipped snow.

Three hundred students were stranded at Maple Creek, Sask., 60 miles east of Medicine Hat, and were billeted in private homes.

FLIGHTS OFF

Airline flights from most southern Prairie points were cancelled. Buses and trains were behind schedule.

The Alberta Motor Association at Medicine Hat urged motorists to stay off the highways.

Drifting was so severe at Swift Current, Sask., that highways department crews could not get out to determine highway conditions.

BUSES BLOCKED

Attendance at Moose Jaw centralized elementary school, where only one of 13 school buses arrived, was cut to 20 from the usual 300. The school was closed. Flights at the Moose Jaw RCAF station were cancelled.

Weather forecast for the Prairies today calls for cold weather and clear or clearing skies.

U.K. Coldest In 135 Years

LONDON (AP)—A renewed cold wave hit winter-weary Europe and Britain Friday.

The dead toll amounted to 448 as temperatures plunged far below freezing.

Britain had the coldest January in 135 years, the weather bureau said.

Queen Starts Tour Of Fiji Islands

BULLETIN

NADI, Fiji (Reuters) — The airliner bringing the Queen and Prince Philip on a South Pacific tour landed here today after a flight from Vancouver and Honolulu.

HONOLULU (AP) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, en route to the Fiji Islands, spent one hour and seven minutes in Honolulu this afternoon—including a 10-minute delay because of a mixup in arrangements.

The chartered 707 jet liner carrying the royal party from Vancouver arrived at 1:50 p.m. (6:50 p.m. EST) and took off at 2:57 p.m.

GOVERNOR LATE

Governor John Burns of Hawaii was 10 minutes late in reaching the airport because of a mixup in timing.

Smiling but tired, the Queen alighted, waved to a crowd of some 400 well-wishers and retreated with the Prince, Burns and British Consul Wilfred Hindle to the lounge in the terminal to wait out the 45-minute refuelling stop.

The Queen spent less than 20 minutes in the lounge. Then she walked briskly through the new airport building and back to the plane.

NO HULA GIRLS

There was no traditional Hawaiian welcome for the royal pair—no flower leis, no hula girls.

But a member of the party arranged for orchids and other Hawaiian flowers to be placed aboard the plane.

'Must Stop Pampering Them'

B.C. Taught Freedomites to Evade Law

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

British Columbia has turned dissident Freedomites into privileged citizens and taught them disregard for the law, Mrs. Lois Haggen (NDP—Grand Forks-Greenwood) told the legislature yesterday.

Legislature news, Page 8.

She mounted a bitter attack on Attorney-General Robert Bonner's stewardship over Freedomite affairs and pleaded with him to heed the advice of Kootenay and RCMP experts in the field.

B.C. must stop pampering the dissident Freedomites, she told the House.

* * *

The appeasement of trouble-makers within the sect was started by former attorney-general Gordon Wismer, Mrs. Haggen said, "and this attorney-general has perpetuated the problem."

* * *

She said during last year's session she warned of impending trouble within the sect, and Mr. Bonner "sanctimoniously assured me that the situation was never under better control."

But within a few days, she continued, Freedomites blew up a power transmission tower near Nelson and cost local industry more than 1,000 man days of work for several days.

She said she knew there was going to be trouble because Freedomites were in the throes of choosing a new leader.

* * *

The Freedomite problem is a provincial problem except where federal penal institutions are concerned, said Mrs. Haggen. She accused Mr. Bonner of not objecting to the Freedomite prison at Agassiz until it became politically desirable to attack federal cabinet minister Davie Fulton for allowing it to be built.

* * *

"I feel this honorable attorney-general is responsible for perpetuating this problem. He has accepted the bad example set before him.

"He has frustrated and disheartened his own RCMP. He has refused to listen to the mayors of Nelson, Trail and Grand Forks. He told me on the floor of this House he has no high regard for the citizens' committee.

She said law enforcement authorities were ordered to wink at such irregularities and infractions as non-attendance at school, failing to fill out

Anglican Church In Duncan Notes Fund Drop

DUNCAN—A slight drop in assistance to St. John's Anglican Church here was noted, treasurer James Moore told parishioners at the annual meeting.

Pledges to St. John's Church decreased from 185 in 1960 to 151 this year, and the gross revenue in 1961 was $13,518 compared with $11,953 last year.

One of the parishioners said that although he didn't really like the pledge system, he could see it was the only business-like solution to the problem of financing the church.

Rev. R. E. Stephenson of St. John's Anglican Church said it is his intention during his ministry in the parish to make every endeavor to reach people in need of assistance.

He said, "We are not a social club, and I have no time for social calls. There is a large number of people here who have not been reached by the church."

TOO MANY DRAINS

He feels the church finances are affected by the available resources being drained into too many service clubs and organizations. In Mr. Stephenson's opinion many people are too concerned about material things and miss the most important part of life, the religious.

OFFICERS NAMED

The new slate of officers in the parish includes Will Dobson, rector's warden; John Holmer, people's warden; J. E. Moore, treasurer; Miss K. Whiteside, secretary. The church committee includes: Peter Daniels, Thomas Wilde, C. Clark, Robert Cairns, Harry Jenner, Paul Alderney, Calverley, C. B. James and Roy Alvine.

Victorian To Oxford

Lyle P. Robertson, 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Robertson, 911 McKenzie Avenue, is en route to Oxford University where he will do post-graduate study.

Mr. Robertson will also be studying at the Rutherford high energy plant.

He attended Sir James Douglas School, Victoria High School, Victoria University and UBC.

After Logging

Road Shortcut Open Soon

DUNCAN—The shortcut to Port Renfrew from the Cowichan Valley via Lake Cowichan, Mesachie Lake and Harris Creek will be open as soon as Hillcrest Lumber Co. has completed logging operations near the road, said company director Peter Stone.

The new route will cut travelling time between the valley and the west coast by half an hour, compared with the link via Shawnigan Lake and Bear Creek.

The new road, to be open for the public before and after work hours and on weekends, will be easier to keep clear in the winter as it does not involve steep grades.

The decision to open the road came last fall when Hillcrest Lumber Co., B.C. Forest Products and the E and N Railroad agreed to the request from the IWA local speaking on behalf of Port Renfrew residents.

Mr. Stone said some minor legal points concerning the new route should be straightened out soon. Approximate distances of the two roads in comparison are: Shawnigan Lake to Port Renfrew—50 miles, and Mesachie Lake to the west coast point—30 miles.

Mr. Stone said his company will erect about 13 gates at sideroads.

Mrs. D. W. Barker, Vancouver Island president of the Navy League, will be present for both inspections.

The enrolment of L. A. McKenzie into the Royal Canadian Sea Cadets was announced. Mr. McKenzie, who will have the rank of sub-lieutenant, has been appointed to the Alberni branch.

Icy Roads Ignored For Concerts

DUNCAN — Approximately 300 people last night braved cold weather and icy roads to reach Cowichan Senior Secondary School auditorium to hear Elgar's oratorio The Dream of Gerontius. Former Victoria Symphony Orchestra concertmaster Clifford Evens conducted the orchestra.

The Victoria University choir was directed by Boyce Gaddes and the semi-chorus by Capt. James Gayfer. Soloists were Peter Yelland, Gerontius; Randall Marsh, priest and angel of agony, and June Gruber, angel.

The combination of orchestra, soloists and choirs was well received by the Duncan audience for whom this season's concerts ended last night.

Union Charge

Liberty To Pick Violated

VANCOUVER — The IWA Friday accused MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. of trying to dictate which union will represent workers at its new Harmac operation.

The union said the company has apparently taken steps to ensure the Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Union will represent the workers at the Nanaimo-area operation in preference to the IWA.

"This is a distinct violation of the recognized principle that the workers concerned should have complete freedom in the selection of a union of their own choice," the IWA said.

The Canadian Labor Congress is investigating the situation, and the IWA said it hopes the question can be settled amicably within union circles.

130 Scientists Discuss World Under Water

By DON GAIN

Everything from bathythermographs to plankton samplers are being discussed at the Pacific Northwest oceanographers' conference which opened at the Empress Hotel Friday and will wind up today.

More than 130 scientists from Canada, the U.S., Hawaii, Turkey and India are discussing underwater physics, chemistry, biology, geology and zoology.

Dr. J. P. Tully, oceanographer in charge of Pacific oceanographic group in Nanaimo, which is playing host to the convention, put it this way: "We have the university people, professors researchers, hydrographers, army, navy, air force and some industrial organizations, all seeing how the other half lives."

DISTRICT ADVANCES

"Several quite distinct advances have been documented in the mathematical descriptions of how winds, waves and currents flow in the sea. From these mathematical models we can make forecasts," he said.

"A paper given this afternoon by Dr. Robert Stewart of UBC brought out the fact there is a very real depression in the mean sea level during big waves, this is every seventh or 10th, and in ocean waves this could be as much as two feet."

FOUR GROUPS

Four main groups represented at the convention are the POG, Nanaimo; the Institute of Oceanograph, UBC; the Oceanography department of the University of Washington and the Pacific naval laboratory, Esquimalt.

Heaviest Death Toll in B.C.

Life from 20 to 39 Most Dangerous

Most dangerous age group for British Columbia residents is the 20 to 39-year bracket.

Figures released Friday by the provincial government's division of vital statistics show more accidental deaths have occurred in that age bracket than in any other over the past five years.

In 1962, for instance, 297 people between 20 and 39 died through accidental causes. The figure in 1961 was 280; in 1960 it was 281; in 1959 it was 289 and in 1958 it was 263.

Overall, 1,158 persons died because of accidents in 1962, compared with 1,007 in 1961; 1,040 in 1960; 1,030 in 1959, and 958 in 1958.

Traffic accidents caused most deaths in the five-year period—365 in 1962; 320 in 1961; 302 in 1960; 315 in 1959, and 280 in 1958.

Second highest toll was taken by accidental falls—180 in 1962; 167 in 1961; 204 in 1960; 157 in 1959, and 159 in 1958.

The figures also show the most dangerous single place, apart from the highways, is the home.

In 1962, 287 accidental deaths occurred in the home; 241 in 1961; 221 in 1960; 230 in 1959 and 171 in 1958.

Next most dangerous was the place of employment—107 died at work in 1962; 84 in 1961; 116 in 1960; 123 in 1959, and 111 in 1958.

Aldermen Agree

Keep Firm Stand In City Sign Issue

Aldermen agreed yesterday Victoria should "hold the line" against further encroachment upon sign regulations.

The move, recommended at a joint meeting of both major council committees, finance and works, followed nearly two years of steady watering down of the original draft bylaw to regulate signs.

The meeting also approved the last two of 15 amendments proposed by the local sign industry over the past year.

BYLAW WORKABLE

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman, said the bylaw would bring some aesthetic improvement and is workable while "not putting any of the sign people out of business."

The joint meeting agreed to ask the legal department to include specific provisions covering signs in the special area surrounding the legislative precinct and Cathedral Hill when the bylaw comes to city council for final approval.

Ald. J. L. W. McLean said he wanted to be sure that no provisions in the bylaw were left solely to the discretion of city council.

"If this was the case, council would be left open to any pressure group," he said. "And what then would become of all the hours put in by the special sign committee to come up with workable regulations?"

Ald. McLean said if there had to be further changes in the future these should be done by amending the bylaw.

EXTEND ZONES

It was agreed city council should receive a recommendation to extend the sign zones in Victoria West and James Bay, in the latter case principally to include Ogden Point docks.

The meeting also agreed to addition of a three-by-four-foot addition to the existing Empress Motor Lodge sign indicating it was affiliated with the Canadian Motor Hotel Association.

A further request to extend the Victoria West zone to include a junkyard operation, which is ringed by a number of billboards, was turned down.

IN FIVE YEARS

Under present regulations the billboards will have to be removed in five years.

City planner Roderick Clack opposed the suggestion billboards should be permitted in residential areas where, as in the case of a junkyard, they would serve to hide the clutter behind.

Mr. Clack said the junkyard in question caused the city no trouble and was controlled by regulations which governed award of an annual permit for its operation.

BLIGHTING EFFECT

"It is well known that billboards have a blighting effect on residential properties," the planner said.

Ald. Edgelow said if council didn't stick by its regulations "there will always be somebody wanting them extended just across the road." He added, "we must be strong and stick by our bylaws."

City Willing to Talk About Bastion Swap

By IAN STREET

The city is prepared to negotiate a property swap with the provincial government for the old courthouse on Bastion Square.

The building, vacated last year, is key to re-development of historic Old Lower Town, and would be in turn leased to one or more local organizations who would put it to a new use.

But there is still some puzzlement in city hall over Public Works Minister W. N. Chant's offer to make the swap for city-owned property in the legislative precinct.

The only city property in the precinct consists of a handful of vacant lots with a market value of about $15,000.

There is, of course, also the James Bay firehall which lies on the fringe of the precinct, but it is assumed the government isn't seeking this property.

Value Varies Greatly

The valuation of the old courthouse building also appears to leave considerable room for negotiation. Mr. Chant said it was worth approximately $125,000. Unofficial city hall estimates range from $50,000 to $80,000.

The government is willing, however, to have an independent appraisal of both building and city property offered in exchange. This will also, most likely be agreeable to the city.

Mr. Chant disclosed yesterday the government has opened negotiations with the city for disposal of the courthouse. The minister said he made an initial offer to Mayor R. B. Wilson.

Mayor Wilson said yesterday he was "encouraged" that the government had taken the first step in disposing of the unused building.

"The offer of a property exchange may well open the door to acquisition by the city of this historic building," the mayor said.

Mayor 'At a Loss'

He added: "I'm rather at a loss to understand, however, what Mr. Chant means by requesting the exchange of city property of equal value within the legislative precinct. The city doesn't own that much property in the area."

The city nevertheless will be "glad to discuss alternate proposals" with the government, Mayor Wilson said.

He stressed the city must be realistic in its negotiations and added therefore "we cannot assume that the old courthouse has a high market value."

The minister said it would be up to the city what was done in Bastion Square afterwards.

The courthouse building has been suggested as the home of an arts centre and school of music and as a maritime museum. Mr. Chant suggested it could be put to a combination of uses.

The legislative precinct covers part of the James Bay area. The government, through its Capital Improvement District Commission, has been buying up property for future expansion of the legislative buildings.

Deadline Extended

Deadline for tenders on a $2,000,000 federal forest research laboratory in Saanich has been extended from Jan. 30 to Feb. 13. It is believed some contractors needed more time to prepare their estimates.

Council Cuts Down Winter Work Plans

City council members yesterday cut back a proposed $274,350 winter works program to $76,550—leaving in only those items currently considered essential.

The city will actually get $143,500 worth of work for its contribution when grants from senior governments are included.

The remainder of the proposed winter works program will come up again for consideration at budget time. Projects that pass muster will be included in the fall winter works program.

WORK APPROVED

Those approved by yesterday's joint meeting of finance and public works committees are:

Juvenile detention home, $100,000 (city's share $45,000); Pemberton Park grading and landscaping, $8,000 ($5,750); Beacon Hill Park greenhouse, $6,500 ($4,800); storm drain Michigan-Oswego, $18,000 ($13,000); sewer Wilson Street, $5,000 ($3,600); Beacon Hill path construction, $1,000 ($800); concreting unkept boulevards, $5,000 ($3,600).

Wanted: Island Caves

Know any good caves?

If you do, a Seattle physician who recently led a scientific group exploring the caves at Horne Lake would be interested in hearing about them.

Dr. William Halliday said in a telephone interview from Seattle last night preliminary reports on the first scientific study of the Horne Lake caves ever made should be available in a week or so.

A group of members of the Cascade Grotto of the National Speleological Society visited two of the three caves at the lake during the first week in January. They hope to return some time for further study.

Dr. Halliday said the group would like to hear of any other little-known caves in the Pacific Northwest. His address is 1117 East 38th Avenue, Seattle.

Sudbury Union Fight Spreads to Province

Reverberations of the bitter union jurisdictional battle that shook Sudbury, Ont., last year appear to have spread to British Columbia.

A group of workers at Craigmont Mines near Merritt has applied for a vote to decertify Mine-Mill and Smelter Workers as their representatives.

Headed by W. Neufeld, described as "secretary, Craigmont Workers Committee," the group says it wants to join the United Steelworkers instead.

TWO UNIONS

The two unions are the groups that were involved in the Sudbury conflict.

A labor relations board hearing on the vote application will be held Feb. 12 in Vancouver.

The group claims it represents 211 of less than 300 Craigmont workers, and that more than 200 signed Steelworkers' union cards in the six days to Jan. 29.

A letter signed by Mr. Neufeld, and sent to cabinet ministers, the B.C. Federation of Labor, other labor groups and newspapers, says the group has been contacted by many other unions.

"We have decided to join the United Steelworkers as we believe one strong democratic union is better than the pro-company Mine-Mill," the letter says.

Labor Minister Peterson commented Friday decertification applications are "serious matters."

NOT OVERNIGHT

"They are not things that can be handled overnight," he said, "and are considered very carefully by the board."

Mr. Peterson said he was sure the board was handling the case with the usual careful consideration.

The group complained in a telegram about the time between their petition, Nov. 29, and the date set for the hearing.

Closed Session Here

A-Arms Rift Discussed

Political and military defence experts discussed the current controversy over nuclear arms for Canada behind closed doors in Victoria Friday.

Following an all-day seminar on Canadian defence, an RCAF officer ranking high in the Canada-U.S. North American Air Defence (NORAD) organization declined to comment on Canadian defence problems.

NOT THE DAY

Air Vice-Marshall M. D. Lister, deputy chief of staff (operations) at NORAD, was obviously referring to current arms debate in Ottawa when he said: "I'm sorry, but this just isn't the day for servicemen to be talking to the press."

Other participants in the seminar were C. M. Drury, Liberal member of Parliament, A. B. Patterson, Social Credit MP, Harold Winch, New Democratic Party MP, Egan Chambers, Conservative former parliamentary assistant to the national defence minister, and Gen. Charles Foulkes, former chairman of the Canadian chiefs of staff.

OTHER ASPECTS

Following the seminar, chairman J. G. Grant of the University of B.C. confirmed the current nuclear weapons dispute was discussed along with other aspects of Canadian defence.

"It was just like it is in the press," he said. "Nobody was sure."

Aim of the seminar was to give background information on NORAD, what it is and does, and the problems it encounters.

The seminar is to be repeated in Vancouver today.

Labor Hall Low Bid $147,980

Low bid to build the new Victoria labor headquarters was a slim $2,020 under the $150,000 estimate.

Architect Wilfred Wilkinson Friday opened six bids on construction of the auditorium-office building at Quadra and Market. Almost $12,000 separated high and low bids.

Patterson Construction Ltd. bid $147,980, lower than the next bid by more than $3,500.

OTHER BIDS

Other bids were: G. H. Wheaton Ltd., $150,534; E. J. Hunter and Sons, $154,734; M. P. Paine Co., $155,589; Dillabough and Luney, $159,677 and Farmer Construction Ltd., $159,885.

An official of the Victoria Building Co-Operative Union said directors will meet during the weekend to consider the bids.

They will then be presented to the annual meeting of the co-operative Monday at 8 p.m. in the labor headquarters on Pandora.

Purchase Studied

Film's Viking Ship New Park Feature?

Purchase of a 70-foot Viking ship, built for a movie, is being considered by promoters of the planned Sherwood Forest commercial recreation park on the Gorge.

Promoter Milton Tisdale said Friday he wired New York inquiring about the ship and was informed it was available "at a price within our budget," although it needs a new motor and sail.

NORWAY-BUILT

The ship was built in Norway in 1956 to the pattern of ancient Viking ships and sailed across the Atlantic for use in filming the motion picture, The Viking.

Mr. Tisdale said if the new park were to purchase the ship—and it was "a thing that could happen"—it would probably be sailed down the U.S. east coast, through the Panama Canal, and up the west coast to Victoria.

PUBLICITY-GETTER

This voyage would itself be quite a publicity-getter for the new park and for Victoria, he said.

Sherwood Forest promoters had planned to have two 50-foot Viking-style ships built to take customers between the Inner Harbor and the park.

MINK TOURS

Mr. Tisdale said the movie ship might replace one of these in promoters' plans or both might still be built and the movie ship used for scenic tours of the Gorge.

The ship is to be discussed at a meeting of promoters Monday.

Woman Hurt In City Crash

A 68-year-old Saanich woman was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital Friday with shock, body abrasions and a fractured heel suffered in a city traffic accident.

The accident was at the intersection of Bay and Government Streets about 2 p.m.

Mrs. Sarah Rosvold, 239 Tolcross Avenue, was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Arthur. The accident happened when Mr. Tolcross drove south on Government and turned east onto Bay.

Other car involved in the accident was driven by George Lesanko, 2509 Prior, north along Government. Mrs. Rosvold's condition last night was described as "good."

Melting Ice Claims Child

A five-year-old Sidney boy slipped to his death through the melting ice of an irrigation pond in North Saanich Friday afternoon.

John Middlemas, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Middlemas, 2527 Bazan, was visiting the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Gray, 9985 East Saanich Road, and was playing with their daughter, Carrie, 4, when the tragedy occurred around 3 p.m.

TERRIBLE STATE

Mrs. Gray was "in a terrible state" following the accident, her husband told the Colonist last night.

"They were playing in our woodshed," Mr. Gray said. "My wife went out and told them to keep their mittens on. Five minutes later she went out and they were gone."

Mrs. Peter Whitehouse, who lives across the road from the irrigation pond, notified her husband, who is a volunteer fireman and the Sidney fire truck and ambulance were on the way in minutes.

An inhalator was applied for half an hour but failed to revive the boy, and he was pronounced dead by Dr. D. R. Ross.

MOVED TO B.C.

The Middlemas family had just moved to B.C. in October from Edmonton. Mr. Middlemas, who is a sheet metal mechanic, brought his family from London, England, about five years ago when he came to Canada to work on the now defunct Avro Arrow project.

He is now employed by Fairey Aviation Company Ltd. at Patricia Bay airport.

CLIMBED FENCE

In addition to his parents, the boy is survived by two sisters, Brenda, 16, and Lynn, 8, and two brothers, Alan, 12, and Robin, 10.

The irrigation pond where the boy met his death is on the property of C. O. Myers, 9005 East Saanich Road. Sidney firemen, under Chief Arthur Gardner, had to climb a wire fence to get to the pond. They used a ladder to go out on the ice and retrieve the body.

'SPARK OF LIFE'

"There seemed to be a slight spark of life in the boy when we got him out but we weren't able to revive him," fireman Wilkie Gardner said.

The Middlemas boy's death was the second within a month as a result of thin ice. Daniel Belfour, 7, of 2774 Winster, was drowned when he fell through the ice of a Langford pond Jan. 10.

Blanket of Snow

A freakish storm subsided Friday after bringing up to 22 inches of snow to Washington state, but the weather bureau said another, milder, disturbance was on the way.

Stupid Bid?

LONDON (AP)—South bid one spade. North sued for libel and the hand wound up Friday in the high court.

South was bridge expert Edward Mayer, north was Victor Mollo, equally expert, and he held this hand:

Spades: 7, 6, 3.
Hearts: Ace, king, 4, 3, 2.
Diamonds: 3.
Clubs: 6,5,4,3.

* * *

Could anyone possibly bid two clubs on that lot? And would it be libellous to suggest that he could?

Mollo quoted the hand in his recent book, Modern Bidding. Mayer reviewed the book and the hand in a magazine called The Listener and said Mollo recommended a two-club reply. Mayer wrote:

* * *

"It is all very well to make the cheapest response to your partner's opening bid to allow him manoeuvring space but I am not convinced that a bid of two clubs is a commercial response to one spade."

Mollo complained to Justice Sir William McNair that he never recommended a two-club bid on that hand and to suggest he did held him up to ridicule. He brought expert witnesses to say the only possible bid would be two hearts.

Justice McNair—"a very humble bridge expert with no great claims to orthodoxy" — dismissed Mollo's suit against Mayer and the BBC, publishers of The Listener.

New Blizzard Bitter Cold Hit Prairies

(From Canadian Press)

A blizzard screamed across the southern Prairies Friday and knifed into northwestern Ontario and the northern United States.

Driving winds piled up drifts that brought highway traffic to a near standstill in Alberta and Saskatchewan, blocked at least one highway and halted an air-search for a missing plane in Manitoba.

Sub-zero temperatures added to the discomfort.

The blizzard, second in 10 days, started late Thursday night. It moved across the open country with winds gusting to 50 miles an hour. Visibility in many areas was reduced to near zero by wind-whipped snow.

Three hundred students were stranded at Maple Creek, Sask., 60 miles east of Medicine Hat, and were billeted in private homes.

FLIGHTS OFF

Airline flights from most southern Prairie points were cancelled. Buses and trains were behind schedule.

The Alberta Motor Association at Medicine Hat urged motorists to stay off the highways.

Drifting was so severe at Swift Current, Sask., that highways department crews could not get out to determine highway conditions.

BUSES BLOCKED

Attendance at Moose Jaw centralized elementary school, where only one of 13 school buses arrived, was cut to 20 from the usual 300. The school was closed. Flights at the Moose Jaw RCAF station were cancelled.

Weather forecast for the Prairies today calls for cold weather and clear or clearing skies.

U.K. Coldest In 135 Years

LONDON (AP)—A renewed cold wave hit winter-weary Europe and Britain Friday.

The death toll amounted to 100 as temperatures plunged far below freezing.

Britain had the coldest January in 125 years, the weather bureau said.

Diefenbaker Silent Over Dissolution

London Surprised

We're Usually So Genteel!

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's argument with the United States over nuclear defence is being watched in London with polite interest and a certain mild surprise.

"Not often Canada gets on the front pages," said one British observer. "You're usually so genteel. And what happened to all those speeches about the longest undefended frontier?"

Asked for less lighthearted comments, spokesmen for the Commonwealth relations office and the foreign office recoiled. "Not normally our practice to comment on this sort of thing," one source said crisply.

One unofficial reaction to the Canadian-U.S. tiff is that the Western alliance is in "enough trouble" already after this week's developments in Brussels, with France shutting Britain out of the Common Market and commentators talking sombrely of "the funeral—of Europe."

Articles have already been written about the decline of NATO. Canadian displeasure with the U.S. state department, if still evident at the NATO meeting in Ottawa next May, will hardly provide the harmonious atmosphere conducive to easing strains in the alliance.

THREATS POSSIBLE

The Manchester Guardian, in a Washington dispatch by Hella Pick, said Washington is "certainly considering whether to threaten Canada with a withdrawal of some of the important defence contracts" placed in Canada by the U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—Fresh from a 40-minute call on Governor-General Vanier that sparked new speculation about dissolution of Parliament, Prime Minister Diefenbaker late Friday went into conference with External Affairs Minister Green and the Canadian ambassador to Washington.

Ambassador Charles Ritchie was called home from Washington in the wake of a mushrooming controversy with the United States over nuclear arms policy.

He and Mr. Green were ushered into the prime minister's private office across the hall from the Commons chamber, where the possibility of dissolution was the chief topic of conversation, if not of actual debate.

Tone wrong but facts right, says Rusk; We're not part of New Frontier, says Diefenbaker. See Page 5.

The conference lasted about 45 minutes and Mr. Diefenbaker, when questioned by reporters, called it "just a review of the situation." He said there would be a morning cabinet session.

Later, he entered the government lobby behind the Commons chamber, chatted with supporti-

Columbia: Things Look Bad

WASHINGTON (AP)—A government official who has been involved in negotiations with Canada regarding that country's ratification of the proposed Columbia River treaty said Friday "things look pretty bad."

The official, who asked not to be named, told a reporter the situation had been looking bad for some days, even before Prime Minister Diefenbaker accused the United States Thursday of butting into Canadian affairs in regard to nuclear weapons.

SOME DAYS

"I've been pessimistic now for some days," the official said.

"We had expected to hear something from the Canadians about the middle of December and certainly during January, as the result of recent meetings and conferences.

"We haven't heard a thing. I also regard as negative the developments in regard to nuclear weapons."

NOT DONE SO

The United States ratified the Columbia treaty on March 16, 1961 but Canada has not done so.

Interior Secretary Stewart Udall expressed optimism at a press conference five weeks ago. He said at that time that a great deal of progress had been made in a series of closed-door talks.

Queen Starts Tour Of Fiji Islands

BULLETIN

NADI, Fiji (Reuters) — The airliner bringing the Queen and Prince Philip on a South Pacific tour landed here today after a flight from Vancouver and Honolulu.

HONOLULU (AP) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, en route to the Fiji Islands, spent one hour and seven minutes in Honolulu this afternoon—including a 10-minute delay because of a mixup in arrangements.

The chartered 707 jet liner carrying the royal party from Vancouver arrived at 1:50 p.m. (6:50 p.m. EST) and took off at 2:57 p.m.

Governor John Burns of Hawaii was 10 minutes late in reaching the airport because of a mixup in timing.

Smiling but tired, the Queen alighted, waved to a crowd of some 400 well-wishers and retreated with the prince, Burns and British Consul Wilfred Hindle to the lounge in the terminal to wait out the 45-minute refuelling stop.

The Queen spent less than 20 minutes in the lounge. Then she walked briskly through the new airport building and back to the plane.

NO HULA GIRLS

There was no traditional Hawaiian welcome for the royal pair—no flower leis, no hula girls.

But a member of the party arranged for orchids and other Hawaiian flowers to be placed aboard the plane.

B.C. Taught Freedomites to Evade Law

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

British Columbia has turned dissident Freedomites into privileged citizens and taught them disregard for the law, Mrs. Lois Haggen (NDP—Grand Forks, Greenwood) told the legislature yesterday.

Legislature news, Page 5.

She mounted a bitter attack on Attorney-General Robert Bonner's stewardship over Freedomite affairs and pleaded with him to heed the advice of Kootenay and RCMP experts in the field.

B.C. must stop pampering the dissident Freedomites, she told the House.

* * *

The appeasement of trouble makers within the sect was started by former attorney-general Gordon Wismer, Mrs. Haggen said, "and this attorney general has perpetuated the problem."

* * *

She said during last year's session she warned of impending trouble within the sect, and Mr. Bonner "sanctimoniously assured me that the situation was never under better control."

But within a few days, she continued, Freedomites blew up a power transmission tower near Nelson and cost local industry more than 1,000 man days of work for several days.

She said she knew there was going to be trouble because Freedomites were in the throes of choosing a new leader.

* * *

The Freedomite problem is a provincial problem except where federal penal institutions are concerned, said Mrs. Haggen. She accused Mr. Bonner of not objecting to the Freedomite prison at Agassiz until it became politically desirable to attack federal cabinet minister Davie Fulton for allowing it to be built.

* * *

"I feel this honorable attorney-general is responsible for perpetuating this problem. He has accepted the bad example set before him.

"He has frustrated and disheartened his own RCMP. He has refused to listen to the mayors of Nelson, Trail and Grand Forks. He told me on the floor of this House he has no high regard for the citizens' committee.

She said law enforcement authorities were ordered to wink at such irregularities and infractions as non-attendance at school, failing to fill out
